LEVINE PLANS HOP AT DAWN; RACE LIKELY

PARIS, Aug. 10.—Charles A. Levine and his French pilot Maurice Drouhin are very likely to take off from Le Bourget Field at dawn tomorrow on the return trip of the transatlantic monoplane Columbia.

Clearing weather conditions over the Atlantic were reported today and the Columbia is ready to start the moment the weather charts indicate the fliers have a "reasonably certain" chance of getting across.

Possibility of a two-plane race across the Atlantic looms. Leon Tiron is expected to take off in his Bluebird sometime tomorrow.

TRANSOCEAN RACE LOOMS

A two-plane race across the ocean is a strong possibility. Leon Givon, pilot of the Bluebird likewise is studying weather charts and has intimated that he will allow no other contestant to start on the perilous westward trip before him.

Drouhin is particularly eager to start ahead of the rival pilot as his contract with Levine would automatically fall through should another plane start first. With an even break in weather conditions, therefore, he has decided to take the Columbia in the air Thursday morning.

STATE IN SUIT AGAINST 4 FISHER APPOINTMENTS

HARRISBURG, Aug. 10.—Attorney General Baldridge today granted the petition of H. V. Daugherty, a tax payer of Philadelphia, asking the state to institute quo warranto proceedings to test the right of four members of the Philadelphia Regristration Board to serve on that board.

The law specifies that not more than three members of the Philadelphia registration board shall be members of the same political party.

Gov. Fisher named George J. Brennan, William Walsh and Mrs. Sara McNeil as Republican members and Benjamin H. Renshaw and Albert H. Ladner as Democratic members.

Daugherty, backed by the Democratic State Committee, asked the state to join in ouster proceedings against Brennan, Mrs. McNeil, Walsh and Ladner on the grounds that all four were Republicans.

Photostatic records taken from the Philadelphia registration records were submitted at a hearing two weeks ago to show that Ladner was registered as a Republican.

The opinion of the Attorney General in granting the request of Daugherty disputes the defense of Ladner's counsel that, even if he were a Republican, his membership on the board was not invalid.

TWO DIE IN AUTO CRASH

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Robert Whitt, 32, and Mrs. Maggie Goodman, 48, of Berwind, were instantly killed last night when an automobile Whitt was driving plunged down a 150-foot embankment on the Tazewell-War road.

"—And in the Elevator Sally Saw a Man"

Sally Jerome, 20, and charming, slipped down to her office after spending the morning cleaning, scrubbing, caring for the needs of an ill mother and placing things in order. She had done a full day's work before noon, and now was about to undertake the tasks for which Mr. Hank Peevey gave her $21 a week.

And in the elevator there was a man. He was young, and Sally Jerome had never seen so attractive, so winning a face before.

And that's but one of the beginnings, just one of the threads of narrative and drama that Beatrice Burton has woven into her thrilling, love-staurated story that she has named "Sally's Shoulders."

There are any number of will-o'-the-wisp girls in Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania who are charming. There are beauties of face; models of symmetry and figure; marvels of personality and sweetness and distinction and dominating. And then there are Sallys. And the Sallys, blessed with a harmony of nature's gifts physically and mentally have this great big thing that is called—heart.

Sally Jerome stood many things.

SACCO-VANZETTI RESPITE LOOMS

FINAL PLEAS MADE AS BOMBINGS AND RIOTING CONTINUE

Court Promises Ruling Tomorrow, Which Raises Hopes for Condemned.

BOSTON, Aug. 10.—Massachusetts officials made two sudden moves today which gave defense counsel strong reason to hope that Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti would get another chance for life.

The moves came scarcely 12 hours before the condemned men were due to die in the electric chair.

Judge George A. Sanderson, of the State Supreme Court, announced he would decide "tomorrow morning" on the final plea of the defense, now before the court.

Governor Alvan T. Fuller ordered the members of his executive council, which body must approve a reprieve, to meet between 3 and 3:30 p. m.

Previously the governor had called into consultation some of the best legal minds of the state, including seven of its former attorneys general.

Red Held For Bomb Threat

"I am a radical. Good cheer. You will not die while comrades live."

This note evidently intended for Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, doomed to die in the electric chair in Massachusetts, was found in the possession of John Vanzi, 28, arrested by the North Side police when he is alleged to have threatened to "blow up" a Chestnut street restaurant.

Vanzi, at a hearing this morning, was turned over to city detectives for investigation.

Another note found on Vanzi read: "You must not die. Viva la Radicals."

Both were signed with Vanzi's name. The prisoner says his home is in Los Angeles, Cal.

Vanzi was the only suspect arrested in the county-wide watch on public buildings, officials, tunnels and bridges, which has been established here to guard against possible violence in demonstration of sympathy towards the two condemned men.

Two sympathy meetings were held in the city and leaders spoke of the Sacco-Vanzetti case, exhorting their hearers to appeal for the convicted slayers.

Police Use Gas Bombs, Revolvers to Disperse Mob.

Violence flamed afresh today, and from widely scattered parts of the world came reports of bombings and marching mobs protesting the execution of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti. In Chicago a riotous mob of 4,000 battled police, but was dispersed by tear gas bombs and pistol shots. In Picher, Okla., a bomb injured six and wrecked houses. In South America the Buenos Aires Palace of Justice was bombed.

71 ARRESTED

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Led by a 16-year-old girl, a mob, numbering 4,000 men and women, alternately roaring the "Third Internationale," world battle song of the radicals, and shouting "Mob the police!" marched toward the loop district early today. It was dispersed only after a clash with police reserves, who resorted to tear bombs and revolver shots.

Sixty-seven men and four women, including the girl leader, Aurora D'Angelo, pretty, bobbed-haired high school girl, were arrested. Several persons were reported injured as the mob broke and fled before the stubborn police resistance.

Tilt Today Ends Giant Series

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

FORBES FIELD, Aug. 10.—The Pittsburgh Pirates completed their second long homestand of the season here this afternoon when they met the Giants in a single contest.

The Cubs, holding a three-game lead over the Pirates, are not scheduled to play today and a victory for the Corsairs will reduce the gap between first and second place to two and one-half games.

Larry Benton, righthander obtained by the Giants in a trade with Boston, was Manager McGraw's choice for mound duty. Benton has won his last five games. The Pirate choice lay between Aldridge and Kremer.

Train Men Ask Easy Sundays

ALTOONA, Pa., Aug. 10.—(UP.)—The first step toward elimination of unnecessary working of train crews on Sunday and holidays, was taken at a joint meeting of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, held here yesterday, when a resolution was adopted, in which the enginemen declared more work is done on Sunday than any other day, the railroads using Sunday as a clean-up day, adding that many of the trains hauled on Sunday and holidays could be handled just as well on other days, giving trainmen a day of rest.

There were 22 lodges represented at the meeting.

Two automobile drivers were arrested this morning after John McNab, 73, a roomer at 3349 Forbes street, had been struck and probably fatally injured by a machine in Forbes street, near Halket street. McNab was taken to the Mercy Hospital, suffering from a fracture of the skull.

The drivers arrested are Ben Hoffman, of 5923 Douglass avenue, and Charles Wilson, of 641 Duff street. Police have not determined which machine hit the man.

McNab is a native of Scotland and has no relatives in this country.

$25,050 in 'Extras' Denied

County Public Works Director Norman F. Brown's request for $25,050 "extras" for contractors met the refusal of County Commissioners today.

"We need $25,050 more than we had figured to complete this work," was in effect what Director Brown said. Disregarding a precedent they established, the commissioners refused approval and referred the matter to the law department for an opinion.

One contract, that for the Lincoln avenue extension, ran $8,020.65 in excess of the original estimate of $7,240.72. The others involved paint jobs. Brown's request was taken to indicate department estimates were at fault.

2 RACE FLIERS DIE IN FIRE

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 10.—(AP.) — Lieutenants George Covell and E. W. Waggener, U. S. N., who left here today in an airplane which they had entered in the Dole flight to Honolulu, were killed when the ship crashed into Point Loma, near here.

The plane was destroyed less than 15 minutes after they had left for the Oaklan (Cal.) airport, where they intended to take off Friday in the flight to Honolulu. The plane burst into flames after it struck Point Loma.

An orderly from the United States naval coaling station at La Playa reported both bodies had been recovered. From the position of the plane, it was believed it had struck the west bank of Point Loma as the airmen were endeavoring to gain altitude.

TRAPPED IN COCKPIT

Covell's body was found in the cockpit of the plane and was charred beyond recognition, identification being made from a wallet that was found in a pocket of his coat. Waggener's body later was recovered from the wreckage and also was badly burned. Waggener is believed to have endeavored to jump clear of the plane as it fell, but was caught in the wreckage.

NO. 13 IN RACE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Gloom spread over the fliers assembled here for the Dole air race to Honolulu when they heard today that the special low wing monoplane flown by Lieutenants George D. Covell and R. H. Waggener, U. S. N., had crashed in Southern California.

"And they drew Number 13 in the race," was the reminder oft repeated, indicting that the aviators considered that sufficient explanation for the forced landings Covell experienced during test flights and today while he was endeavoring to make his way to the starting line here.

Miss Burton's newest serial novel will begin next Monday in The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. It is not a crude story of vulgarity. It is a story anyone, even of the most sensitive tastes, can read and enjoy.

It is a story of the most attractive, blithe shoulders that have wiggled into the pages of storyland.

NAVAL ROW IMMINENT

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Another naval battle with rum runners, comparable in extent to that waged off New York three years ago, appeared imminent in southeastern waters with the opening of the Florida winter season.

Advices to the treasury today indicated that the rum runners, chiefly backed by American capital, are building up a powerful organization for operations between Bimini and other wet off-coast islands and the Florida winter resorts and millionaire colonies.

The smuggling and bootleg rings are importing gunmen from the north and equipping heavily armed speed boats capable of transporting from 50 to 300 cases of liquor from Bimini to Florida in a few hours, according to reports. Airplanes are being thrown into use by the smugglers.

Where once the smugglers concentrated on Rum Row off New York and New England, activities have been transferred to an equally as lucrative market in the South. The off-coast islands are about 60 miles from the mainland or an easy two hours' run for a powerful speed boat, many of which are in operation.

A 35-foot boat with a cargo of 100 cases of whisky is good for a net profit of $15,000 to $20,000 a trip, experts say. Liquor may be purchased for $2 a quart in Bimini and sold for $19 in Florida. One quart of real liquor makes four quarts of bootleg, cut with water and industrial alcohol.

POLICEMEN QUIT AFTER HALTING KLAN PARADE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 10.—(A.P.)—Eleven patrolmen of the Louisville police force resigned yesterday as a result, some of them said, of the dispersal of a Ku Klux Klan parade here Monday night. They announced many of their friends were klansmen. A crowd of 300 anti-klansmen who gathered on the line of March was dissolved without trouble.

CHICAGO GUNMEN TAKE TWO MORE FOR RIDE

CHICAGO, Aug 10.—(AP.)—The bodies of two men believed to have been "taken for a ride" and shot to death in the usual gangster fashion were found lying on a suburban road early today. Shattered glass and a number of .45 caliber pistol shells strewed the road near the bodies, indicating the men had been shot in an automobile and their bodies tossed out. The men apparently were Italians.

The farmer who found the bodies told police he heard several shots last night about 10 o'clock, but thought the noise was the backfiring of an automobile engine.

More than 10 shots were fired into the bodies.

James L. Devereux, chief of the highway police, advanced the theory the men were Chicago "racketeers" who had been ordered to leave Chicago under threat of death, and that after a sojourn in St. Louis they had returned, were found and had been taken out and killed.

50,000 FRANCS FOR GOWNS

Paris—The well-known "Parisienne" now has an annual 50,000-franc Grand Prize of Elegance. Leonard Rosenthal, the pearl merchant, put up the money, with the understanding that the 50 1,000-franc notes would be given by the winner to 50 little, hard-working midinettes in the dressmaking shop that made the prize gown.

"Other countries, larger than ours, have massiveness and strength," says the announcement of the prize. "They are the roots of the world. France is their flower," it goes on modestly. "Her mission is to produce, in every line, the rare and the exquisite, whether an ocean liner, a woman's dress, a rose or a perfume."

COURT PROMISES

The motion before Judge Sanderson was whether the full bench of the Supreme Court should hear argument on a writ of error which Sanderson previously had denied.

When he announced he would make his decision tomorrow, defense counsel hurried jubilantly to the state house to point out to the governor that a reprieve must be granted if the men, doomed to die a few minutes after midnight, are to have the legal chance for life which Judge Sanderson's decision might give them.

Automobiles in the street were smashed, and windows were broken as the crowd surged toward the loop.

Later in the day three more riots involving thousands of men and women broke out on the West Side, stronghold of Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers.

Charges of police with machine guns and tear bombs in readiness smashed three protest parades.

Two women and four men were arrested.

BOMB INJURES SIX

JOPLIN, Mo., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—At least six persons were injured by flying glass, two homes demolished and scores of others unroofed or otherwise damaged by a terrific explosion of dynamite in the heart of Picher, Okla., a mining town southwest of Joplin, late last night.

Authorities expressed the belief that the dynamiting was the work of a radical in protest to the scheduled execution of Sacco and Vanzetti, although they admitted they had no proof to that effect. There is a known radical element in the mining field, the police said.

Several residence garages in a radius of three blocks of the explosion were blown over; hundreds of window glasses in the business section were broken, and furniture in homes near the scene was toppled over as if shaken by an earthquake.

BUENOS AIRES BLASTS

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—A bomb exploded at the Palace of Justice early this morning. The damage was slight. The explosion of this bomb came a short time after an explosion of what was believed to have been a petard at the railway station of Velez Sarsfield, near Buenos Aires. Slight damage was done. Another supposed bomb was found on the tracks of the Southern Railway.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 10.—(International News Service Wire,)—Authorities today sought a gypsy woman whose "magic nickle" cost the Boiling Springs State Bank, at Boiling Springs, near here, $410 in cash.

According to Clayton Strickler, cashier of the bank, the woman managed to get behind the counter of the bank under the pretense of rubbing him with a "magic nickle" and after she had gone through her wierd ceremonies he missed a stack of bills.

Nearly 60 Gypsies were arrested along the highways by authorities, but the suspect was not among them.

Freud, Shaw and Wells Books Condemned by Baptist Deacons

TALLAHASEE, Fla., Aug. 10—(AP.)—Freud, George Bernard Shaw and H. G. Wells were among the authors included in a list of "indecent, immoral and filthy text and reference books and many rotten fiction books" which a group of deacons of the First Baptist Church here told Gov. John W. Martin are in use in the libraries of Florida's higher institutions of learning.

The Rev. Bunyan Stephens, who headed the delegation to the Governor yesterday, said they did not represent the church officially but were "citizens who wished to call the Governor's attention to the disgraceful books used in the state institutions."

Their conclusions were reached after an investigation of the libraries of the Florida State College for Women and the University of Florida.

Boys to Fly Contest Planes August 24

The airplane contest being conducted by the Bureau of Recreation and the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph is on.

Orders for medals and trophy were placed this morning. August 24 has been set defipitely for 14 district tests, when the best airplane models the boys of this district can produce will be put through their paces.

The best of these will be chosen by competent judges, the records sent to the National Aircraft Model Contest committee, and those selected will compete for the city championship, which will be decided August 30 by prominent men of Allegheny county. The final test will be held in Schenley Oval, Schenley Park.

Many boys are wondering whether they are allowed to buy propellers. They are. This was decided by the local committee.

The 11 districts nearer Pittsburgh and mapped out, all center around the following playgrounds. The district championships, for which gold and silver medals will be given, will be decided August 24. They are:

Washington, Bedford and Logan streets; Lawrence, Forty-sixth and Butler streets; Burgwin, Sunbeam and Mansion streets; Ormsby, Twenty-second and Sidney streets, South Side; Warrington, Estella and Warrington avenue; West Penn, Thirtieth and Brereton avenue; Arlington, at Arlington and Sterling street; Beechview, Fairplay and Houlette streets, which will include Brookline, Dormont, Mt. Lebanon and vicinity; Schenley Pool, Schenley Park; Wabash, at Main and Wabash avenue; Homewood, at Hamilton and Lang avenues.

The three locations for the entrants outside of the communities touching these playgrounds have not been selected. The number of boys who send in entry blanks from various sections will determine these. Blanks may be sent to the Aircraft editor of the Sun-Telegraph and will be found on the fiction page with the illustrated article on "How to Build a Plane.

HEARST PLANE LOAD TEST DELAYED

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—A runway softened by recent rains today prevented a load test planned for Old Glory, Fokker monoplane in which Lloyd W. Bertaud and J. D. Hill plan to fly from New York to Rome. The plane was brought to Roosevelt Field, but when the going was found too soft it was placed in a hangar and the work of installing its radio set resumed. The compasses already had been compensated.

The soft runway also prevented the projected trip to Cleveland and it was announced the flight to the Ohio city would be postponed until Friday.

Bertaud said Old Glory would be placed on the Roosevelt Field runway tonight and will remain there in anticipation of the load test early tomorrow.

Arkansas City, out from under flood waters less than a month, prepared to carry on if the approaching flood reached the city. The water was expected to reach the outskirts of the town today.

Desha and Chicot counties are bearing the brunt of the present flood, as they are in the area of the Pendleton and Medford gaps in the levee. Approximately 100,000 acres will be inundated, it was estimated.

A stage of 24 to 25 feet has been predicted for Fort Smith.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Capt. Miss Waite, who is charged with committing the deed last Friday while the American Trader was at sea, was quoted by Capt. Fish as giving the motive that Fisher had associated with other women against her wishes.

"He was a very vain individual," she said, "but I tried to make a man of him."

MANSFIELD HONOR GUEST

State Senator W. D. Mansfield, of McKeesport, will be honor guest at a dinner tonight in Donahoe's, 242 Fifth avenue, to be given by Pittsburgh City Firemen's Protective Association and Pittsburgh Branch, Fraternal Order of Police.

RICH NAVAL MAN STILL LOST

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—The whereabouts of Lieut. Commander Fidelio S. Carter, 74, retired naval officer, the object of a nation-wide search, remained a mystery today. He has not been heard of since last February and at the request of relatives here and in New York a search was started by the Navy Department.

Carter was said to have been in Mound City, Ill., but the government reported that its checks sent to him there had been returned unclaimed since last February. The Mound City postmaster said that two years ago he was given the address of 1 East Fifty-third street, New York City, as the forwarding address for Commander Carter, but said he had received no mail for him for several months. Commander Carter was supposedly wealthy.

COMPANY TREASURER HELD FOR CONTEMPT

Robert P. Cann, of Stoneboro, treasurer of the Mercer Iron and Coal Company, yesterday was adjudged guilty of contempt of court by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker for his failure to turn over to the receivers of the company a check for $1,360.18 belonging to the company. He will be sentenced Tuesday, and at the same time be called upon to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed for his personal property.

FORD COMPANY PAYS FOR FISH IT KILLED

HARRISBURG, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—N. R. Buller, state commissioner of fisheries, has announced receipt of a check for $1,000 as a voluntary contribution from the Ford Steel Wheel Company of Butler for the accidental pollution of the water of Connoquenessing Creek with acid from pickling vats. The money will be used for restocking the stream with fish. The pollution was investigated by the sanitary water board and the company held responsible.

COTTON MILLS TO CLOSE

SHANGHAI, China, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Nine Japanese cotton mills here with a total of nearly a million spindles, have decided that rather than face ruin they will close down unless the Nanking government withdraws completely the proposed excise duty to be put into effect September 1. Sixty thousand Chinese mill hands would be affected.

TO LIFT DETOUR AT SEWICKLEY

Sewickley motorists are jubilant today. It was announced at the office of the County Commissioners that that the detour in the Beaver road, between Emsworth and Glenfield, will be removed September 1.

For almost a year Sewickley motorists have had to go through Sewickley Heights, or across the Ohio River to Coraopolis and then to Neville Island in order to get to Pittsburgh. With the completion of the new road they will have a straight drive to Pittsburgh.

Keep Thin
To Keep Young

Fight excess fat, whatever else you do for youth, beauty and vitality. Fat is not popular today.

Some fight fat by strenuous exercise, some by starvation diet. But the fight is hard and never-ending.

Millions have learned to fight it with Marmola Prescription Tablets. They correct the cause. This is the easy, pleasant way.

Marmola has been used for 19 years. The use has grown, through proved results, until people are using a very large amount. You see the results wherever you look. You can learn them by inquiring of your friends. Excess fat is not nearly so common as it was.

Some wonder if such results can be accomplished without harm. The evidence is everywhere. Countless people know that Marmola brings benefits other than reduction. It could not live and prosper for nearly two decades without that.

Learn what Marmola does. Watch the gradual but constant reduction. Watch the new vitality that comes. Then tell your friends. Tell them how easy it is to reduce in the right way. Go start today.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

LOVE DRAMA, MURDER AT SEA ECHO IN TRIAL

COOK ACCUSED AS WIFE'S KILLER ON CRUISE

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Characters of fiction who take their cues from such phrases as "death by hanging" and "murder on the high seas" are appearing in a dingy Federal courtroom before a judge and jury as an audience in a realistic drama of love [illegible] at sea.

Picturesque adventurers of the sea have been called to speak their lines in the drama. The ancient gallows tower of the Federal Building, once provided for the execution of murderers at sea, casts its shadow over the proceedings.

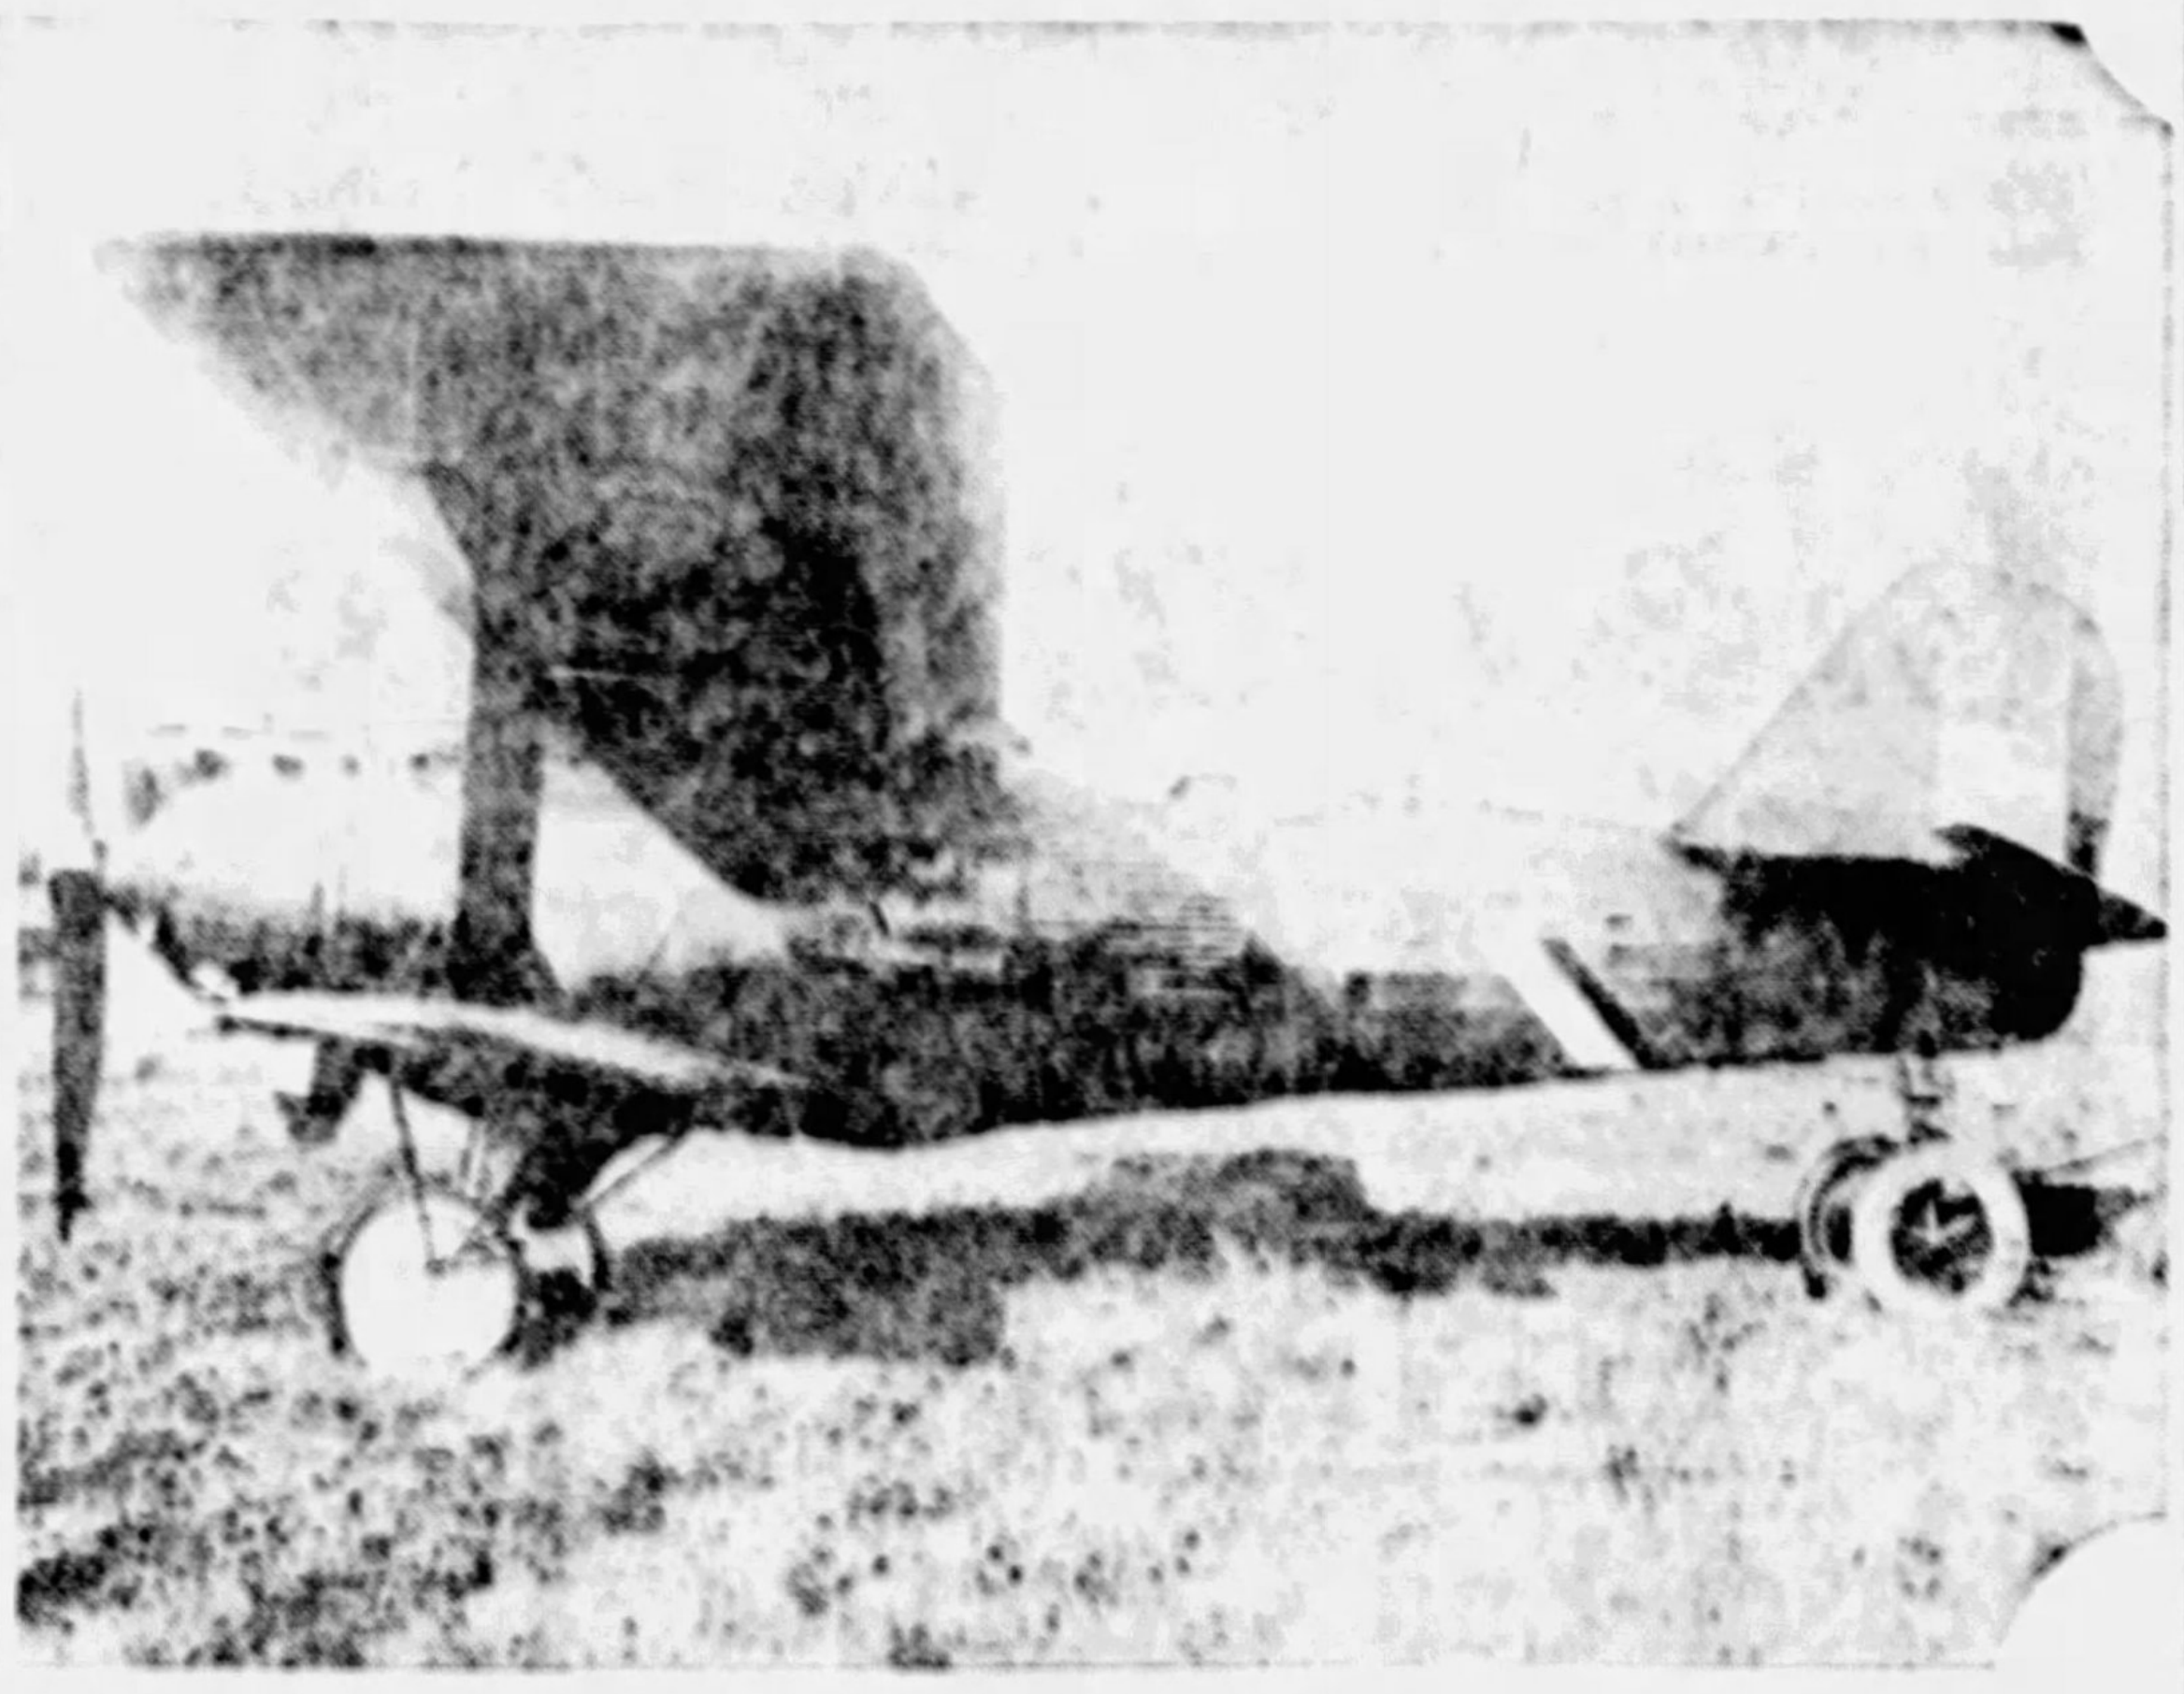
In an atmosphere [illegible] given to the [illegible] attorneys in dry bankruptcy proceedings, Earl Battice, mulatto cook of the schooner Kingsway, is on trial on the charge, as it is phrased in the law which governs crimes on the high seas, that "with force and arms, not having the fear of God before his eyes, and inspired by the devil, he murdered his wife, Louise."

Battice is accused of killing his wife last February at the start of a nightmare cruise from the Gold Coast of Africa because of her alleged friendship with a member of the crew. Tales of mutiny, murder and bloodshed preceded the schooner to port when Battice was arrested.

PLANS OCEAN FLIGHT WITHOUT GASOLINE

FRENCH PILOT

M. de Costes, famous French pilot, who will attempt a transatlantic flight over Lindbergh's route, traveling westward instead of eastward, from Paris to New York.



USES BENZOL, NO GAS

M. de Costes' ship, single-motor, two-seater "Paris Djask" airplane, in which he plans to make the hop. He will use pure benzol instead of gasoline in his attempt to conquer the Atlantic, which is believed to have taken the lives of Nungesser and Coli, French pilots who left on French-United States flight before Col. Charles A. Lindbergh flew to Paris.

So Many Hand Shakes Prince Uses Left

BRANDON, Man., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—The Prince of Wales is saving his right hand. He has had so many hands to shake since he arrived in Canada that he frequently held out his left hand in greeting during his brief stay in Brandon yesterday on his westward journey.

Among those he greeted were 250 members of the Canadian Legion who were lined up on the platform when the train arrived, he having previously expressed a desire to meet them. Each was given a hearty handshake by Premier Baldwin, of Great Britain, who is traveling westward with the Prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George.

The man was buried for more than 10 minutes while his comrades worked furiously to save him. After he was pulled from the debris, it was necessary to use a pulmotor for 15 minutes to revive him.

UNION OFFICIALS SPEAK AT COVERDALE MEETING

Coverdale which has been much in the limelight since the coal strike started April 1, was the scene of a large meeting last night of union sympathizers. Philip Murray, international vice president of the United Mine Workers of America, who, with P. T. Fagan, president of District No. 5, Pittsburgh, made addresses, said today a large number of nonunion men are joining the union as a result of the mass meeting.

Invention of Auto Without Motor Declared Fake

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Stripped of its motor, an automobile equipped with a device which its inventor said "captured electricity from the air," did 40 miles an hour on Kansas City streets yesterday.

H. E. Perrigo, who produced it, claimed it was the reward of 15 years' labor—an invention to revolutionize industry.

An investigation disclosed, it is said, that batteries were hidden in the upholstery connected with the "invention." Perrigo, it is alleged, received amounts ranging from $1,000 to $10,000 from enthusiastic investors. A grand jury investigation impends.

We know some young men in this town who think they are smart enough to make a success of themselves without paying much attention to the rules which always govern success.

Here's what they think: "A good front is the thing. All this talk about Saving is old fashioned—this is the age of Spending."

Forget it boys, and forget it before you get bumped hard.

No man ever made a permanent success without the habit of thrift, and you are not going to be an exception to the iron clad rule.

Business men notice such things

Many guilty of perspiration odor

—and don't know it

[This purifying toilet soap keeps you fresh]

"THIS can't apply to me," you tell yourself. And yet—!

Quick as we are to notice the faintest hint of perspiration odor in others, we rarely can tell when we are guilty.

Even when we are not conscious of perspiring we must take precautions against offending. For our pores constantly give off odor-causing moisture.

Why, then, risk embarrassment when it's now so easy to be safe? Simply use Lifebuoy! So refreshing millions bathe with it daily. It purifies pores—gives lasting freedom from perspiration odor.

Complexions stay healthy

Lifebuoy's mild, antiseptic lather not only purifies body pores—it purifies face pores, too, keeping complexions clear, fresh and glowing with health.

Better still, this same purifying lather helps protect against disease—by removing germs from hands, as well as dirt. Yet it's so soothing and gentle that your skin will love it.

Millions love its clean scent

Lifebuoy is so different from other toilet and bath soaps that even its scent is different. Not a perfume, but a clean, pleasantly hygienic scent which tells you Lifebuoy gives greater protection.

Even before you've finished your first cake, you'll be enthusiastic over this cleanest of all soap scents, which quicky evaporates after rinsing.

Without its antiseptic, Lifebuoy would still be a wonderful toilet soap —but you wouldn't get the same measure of protection.

Extra protection—free

Lifebuoy assures greater health protection and complete freedom from body odor—yet costs no more, probably less, than the soap you now use.

You can get Lifebuoy wherever soap is sold. Its glowing orange-red cake is a welcome sight beside a faucet on a warm afternoon or at any other time when one is tired and dusty. Start using Lifebuoy now.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Char with converting a large amount seized liquor to their own use, se of the 10 members of the prohibiti force in North Carolina were su marily discharged today by Assista Secretary of the Treasury Seymo Lowman. Those ousted included A thur McDuffie, deputy state admini trator; James Rosser, Rogers Hort J. R. Horton, Alexander Adam James Pearson, Elmer Culp and Hal Shafter.

Lowman said the agents had fail to make an accounting of "good" l uor seized in a private residence.

ORR NEGLECTED TO FILE DEED

Failure to record a deed for property bought from the city for a private garage, created the suspicion that the Rev. J. Alvin Orr, pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church and head of the vice-crusading Citizens League of Pittsburgh and Allegheny County, was illegally occupying public land, according to City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt.

Dr. Orr, whose home is on Watson entrance, was given 15 feet of Derry street, 30 feet wide, when that thoroughfare was vacated years ago. The other half of Derry street became an addition to Riverview Park. In 1924 Dr. Orr bought the half accruing to the park for $450 but failed to record the deed, thereby escaping assessment for taxes, Waldschmidt says.

BEQUESTS MADE TO CHARITIES

The will of Miss Alice W. Tindle, of Sewickley, who ended her life by hanging recently, makes bequests for charitable institutions, relatives and friends, it was revealed this morning when it was filed for probate. Miss Tindle left an estate valued at $150,000.

Among the organizations receiving bequests are the Fruit and Flower Mission, the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Societies of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and the St. Barnabas Home.

The will also provides for a bequest to Anne Jacobs Griffith, which upon her death is to go to the Protestant Home for Incurables, the Episcopal Church Home, the Kingsley Association and the South Side Hospital.

MAY NEED NEW BALLOT BOXES

It is improbable that the Allegheny county ballot boxes impounded by the Senate for the Vare-Wilson senatorial investigation will be returned for the September primaries, or that the county will be reimbursed for them meanwhile, United States Senator David A. Reed stated in a letter to the County Commissioners today. Senator Reed said he wrote to Senator James Reed, of Missouri, asking for the return of the boxes, but he doubted any action would be taken before Congress convenes in September. He further stated the Senate could not be compelled to reimburse the county.

Banana Men Busy Again in Italy After Embargo

Universal Service.

ROME, Aug. 9.—"Yes, we have no bananas," is no longer the song in Rome.

For the first time in months the Roman fruit shops were able yesterday to supply their customers with bananas. Premier Mussolini had placed an embargo on them because it was foreign produce.

Italian growers in the south of Italy and Sicily were urged to cultivate the fruit and the first shipment appeared on the markets today.

The whole consignment was gobbled up in less than ten minutes.

INJURED MAN WORRIES OVER DATE WITH WIFE

That he would be unable to keep a theater engagement with his wife was the first thought of William F. Randolph, 31, of 133 West Fourth avenue, Homestead, when he regained consciousness in the Homestead Hospital following an automobile accident on Brown's Hill. He was recovering today from a fracture of the right kneecap when his machine collided with a car owned by Ray Mahoney, 26, of 4616 Saline street, who also was injured.

Austrian Archduke in Pictures After Finding Himself Broke In California Movie Center

HIS Imperial Highness of Austria and His Royal Highness of Hungary, Archduke Leopold, it is announced, has been signed by John Ford, director, and is now appearing in the role of a German army officer in the screen version of I. A. R. Wylie's magazine story, "Grandmother Bernle Learns Her Letters."

"The archduke entered the films under the most unusual circumstances," the announcement states.

"In Los Angeles, his royal highness, who had been touring the United States with his secretary, Alfred Neuhardt, found himself in need of immediate funds. This need prompted the archduke to communicate with Count Laszlo Szechenyi, Hungarian ambassador to the United States. The count's reply to the archduke's request was of such a nature as to precipitate a challenge to a duel.

"With no other way open to obtain funds, the archduke decided to enter pictures and earn the necessary transportation. He is taking his work with intense seriousness and," according to Ford, "is one of the most exemplary actors on the set."

Japan Life Influenced By American Films, Official Says

Traditional customs, habits of dress and general living conditions in Japan are being powerfully influenced by American-made pictures, according to B. P. Schulberg, associate producer at the Paramount studio, who has returned to Hollywood after a six weeks vacation in Japan.

"American pictures dominate the Japanese film market," Schulberg declared, "and American society, pictured in them, is being emulated by Japanese picture patrons. It is not a radical trend, but it is my opinion that the American pictures have contributed greatly toward the Japanese assimilation of Western customs."

PATRIOTIC MOVIE COMING TO NIXON

The seat sale for "Old Ironsides" will open tomorrow morning at the box office of the Nixon Theater. "Old Ironsides" had runs in New York in both the Rivoli and Criterion.

"My Son," next week's offering of the George Sharp Production Stock Company at the Pitt Theater, is a story of the Portuguese settlement in a fishing village in Massachusetts. Herbert Clark, Anne Forrest and Escamillo Fernandez will appear in the leading roles.

"The Big Parade," starring John Gilbert, with Renee Adoree, will be presented next week in Loew's Aldine for the first time in Pittsburgh at popular prices. It is a duplication of the presentations at the Astor Theater, New York, where it is still running after 93 weeks.

In the Davis next week William Faversham and company will head the Keith-Albee vaudeville program with a presentation of Edwin Burke's "The Sponger."

Magyars of Western Pennsylvania will hold their annual reunion in Kennywood Park today. Cliff Curran, high-pole daredevil, performs twice daily, free of charge. There will be dancing in the afternoon and evening, with the music furnished by Art Giles and his Everglades Orchestra.

RICHARD ARLEN OFFICER IN BRITISH FLYING CORPS

Richard Arlen, the leading man in Esther Ralston's new picture, "After Office Hours," holds an honorary commission as second lieutenant in the British Royal Flying Corps.

Gay Man Of World -:- She's Sophisticated -:- Suave Gentleman

MAN OF THE WORLD, gay boulevardier, at ease in any of life's strata—that is Menjou, who represents, more perhaps than any other personality on the screen, the sophisticated male.

GRETA GARBO'S peculiar appeal is somewhat difficult to classify. It belongs to her, and her alone, and has placed her in the foremost ranks of the screen's sophisticated women—sirens and vamps.

THERE IS A FORMAL dignity about Lewis Stone that immediately places him in the category of "gentleman." He has done much to prove that the juvenile player hasn't completely cornered the romantic field. Suavity and poise are his strong points.

The Most Colorful Episode of American History told in Peter B. Kyne's New Novel

THE Gold Rush! Volumes have been written about the Revolution . . . about the Civil War . . . and the World War. But the story of the Gold Rush, which united for the first time the great East and West of the United States and remade the nation as surely as the Civil War was to do it later, had not been done until Peter B. Kyne, noted son of California, was asked to do it for Cosmopolitan readers.

. . . And now Mr. Kyne has done it with the color that has distinguished his other works. It is a contribution to American history that Cosmopolitan's great audience will particularly appreciate. For these readers make up the class market of America . . . a market distinguished not only by its high standards of living and adequate buying power, but also by its reading habits.

Strachey, for example, believed there was a big public for worth-while writing done interestingly, and he proved it with his "Life of Queen Victoria."

Then came Will Durant's "Story of Philosophy," Paul De Kruif with "Microbe Hunters," and George A. Dorsey with "Why We Behave Like Human Beings."

It is for this mass of class readers . . . more than a million and a half . . . th... Cosmopolitan is keyed and published. Its editing is based on the idea that the thing really worth talking about can be written interestingly and vividly.

"The Tide of Empire" is worth while . . . and most interestingly and vividly written. Do not miss it.

14 Short Stories . . . 4 Serials . . . 8 Special Features

Ring W. Lardner writes a fight story that's a knockout . . . W. Somerset Maugham tells a dramatic story of Secret Service operators in war-time . . . Rex Beach writes of a girl who shocked Broadway . . . Irvin S. Cobb contributes another story of the Romantic River . . . Zona Gale relates a charming story of today and yesterday.

ALSO novels, stories and features by A. E. W. Mason, Martha Ostenso, Edwin Balmer, O. O. McIntyre, George A. Dorsey, Beverley Nichols, Robert W. Service, Opie Read, Sir Philip Gibbs, Jesse Lynch Williams, Gouverneur Morris, Edward L. McKenna, Thyra Samter Winslow, Ernest Poole, George Moore, Royal Brown, J. S. COOL THINGS to have on
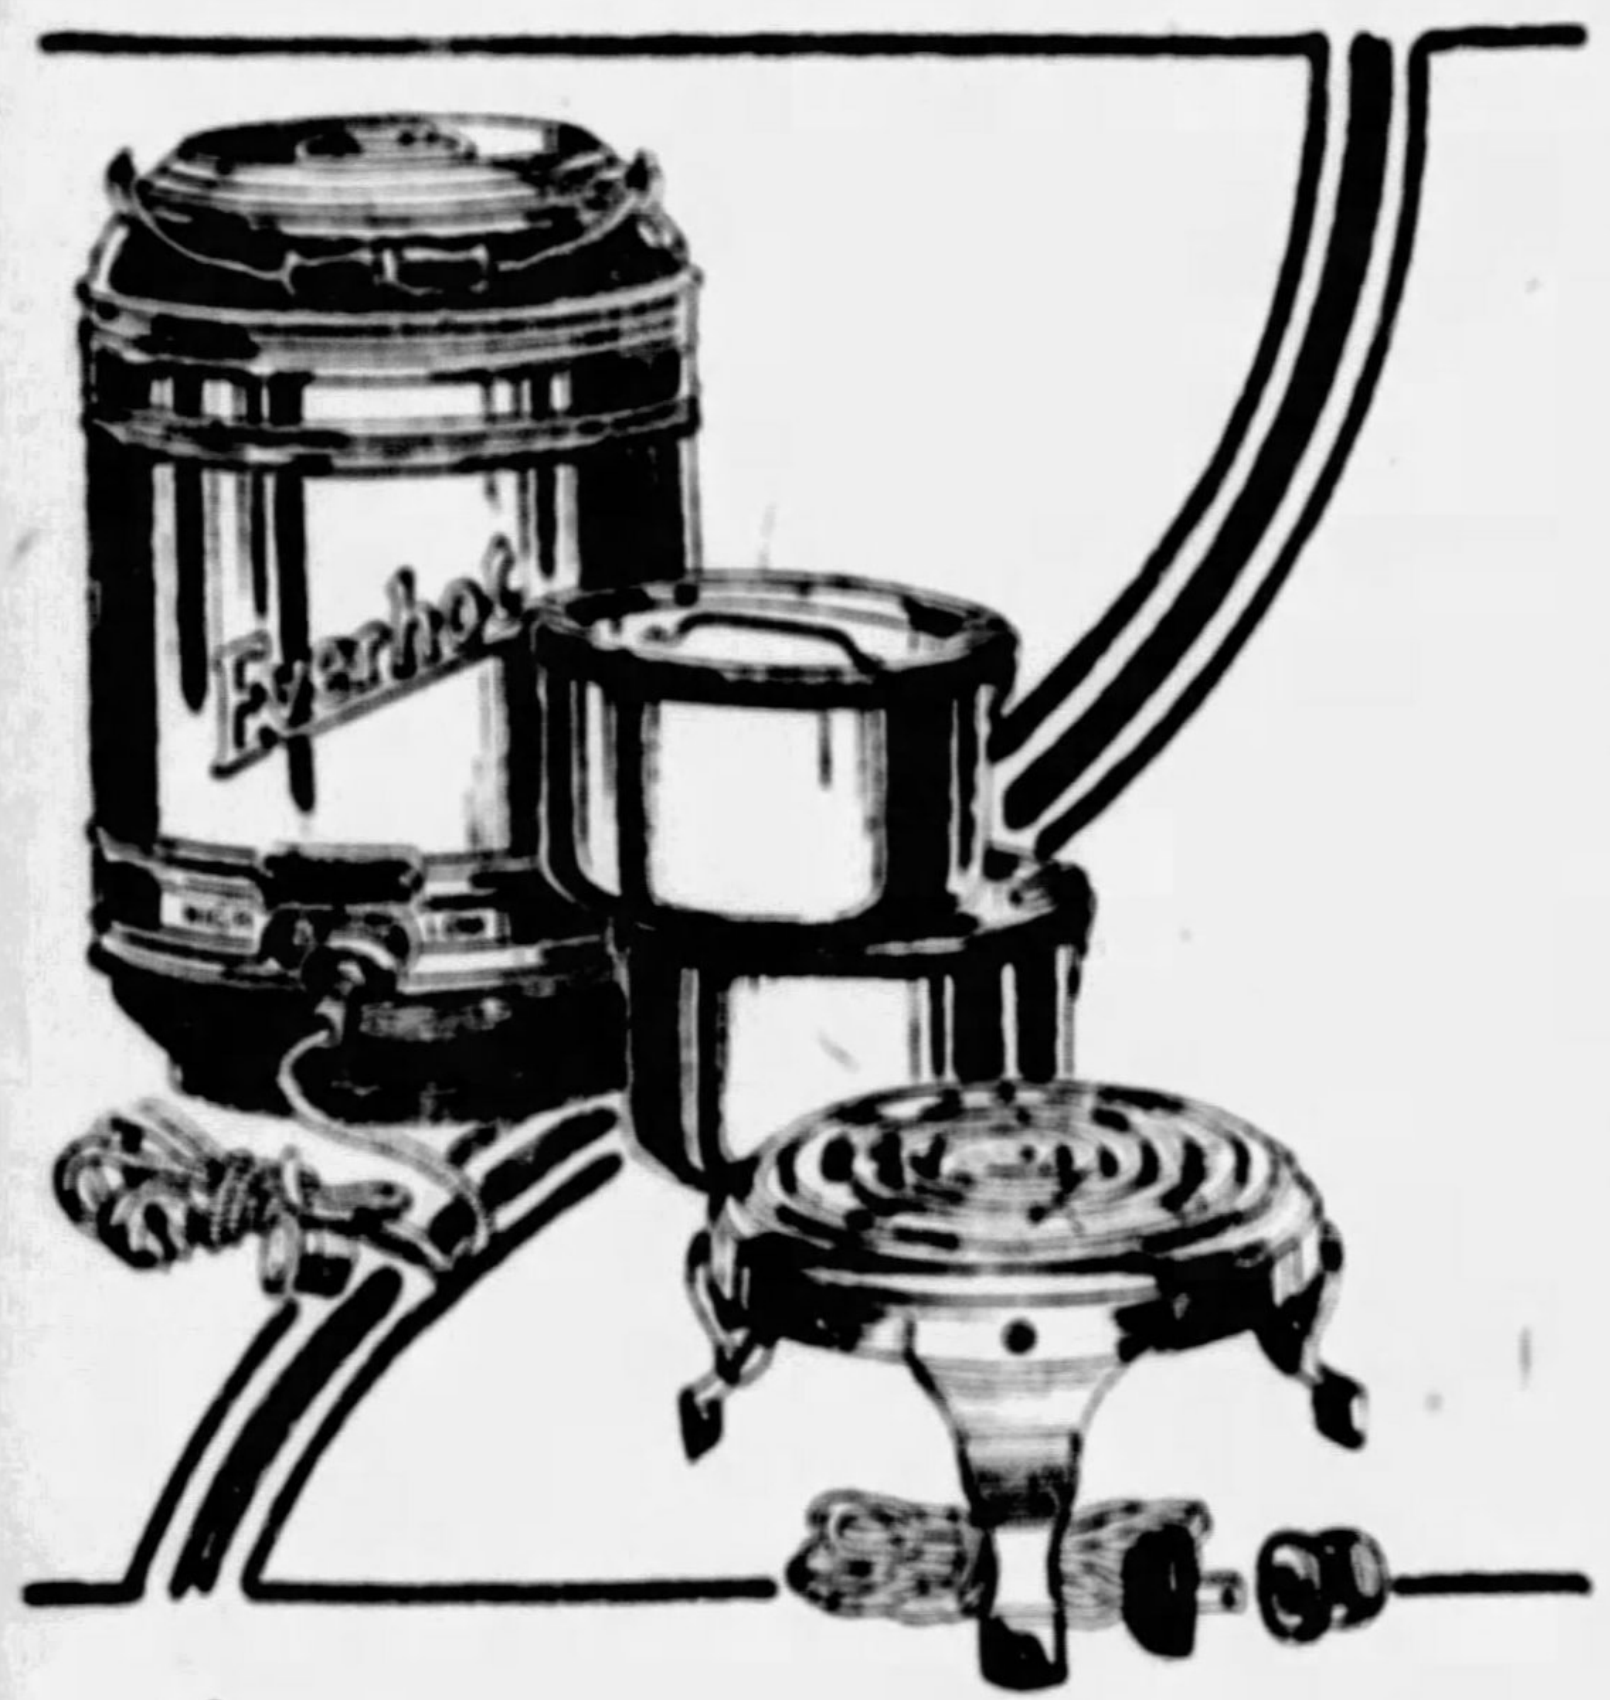
Sultry, Summer Days



EVERHOT, the name of the new electric cooker, means always hot—inside. The outer part or container is cold. No heat radiates, adding misery to the already hot kitchen.

On these hot, perspiry days, the Everhot is an essential of life, especially to the women. We men can't realize just how miserable life can be for them bending over a hot stove. Perhaps, if we were to buy them an Everhot—and its price is so low—their task would be a little easier.

Food cooked in an Everhot is very good, too. The even internal heat is retained and thoroughly cooks every thing. And if one is to go picnicking, the meal, when eaten, even six hours later is as fresh and piping hot as though just cooked.

A special offer, this month only, at the Gas and Electric Shops will be the limited sale of Everhot Electric Cookers and Everhot Table Stoves—The combination priced at only $13.95 if paid by cash, and by the payment plan, merely 95 cents down, and the balance monthly on the light bill.

INDIAN'S GIFTS ARE VOIDED

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Jackson Barnett, an aged Creek Indian made wealthy by discovery of oil on his land in Oklahoma, was "solicited and importuned for donations, kidnaped and married by an adventuress and harassed and annoyed by his attorneys," Federal Judge John C. Knox declared today in ordering Barnett's funds and property turned over to the Secretary of the Interior for administration and safe keeping.

Judge Knox's decision declared null and void a reputed gift of $550,000 made by Barnett to Bacon University, in Oklahoma, and the transfer of a like sum to his wife. Mrs. Barnett was present with her husband in court when his gifts were being contested.

Lindy Disclaims Threat "To Drink If Women Keep After Me"

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 10.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh did not smoke the cigaret he puffed at his Cincinnati banquet because of a wager; neither did he make the statement attributed to him that "if those women persist in keeping after me I'm going to take a drink."

The conqueror of the Atlantic made these denials here today. "These reports are not true. I do not smoke habitually, nor do I drink. But let me get back on the main line." He then returned to the "main line"—aeronautics.

When a reporter again strayed from the main line to ask, if while in Europe, "with all that cognac, champagne and so forth floating around, he had drunk all toasts with water," he answered, "No, but let's return to the subject."

QUICKSANDS OF LOVE

A New Phase of "Revelations of a Wife"

By Adele Garrison

I SAT in troubled musing for a full hour after Dicky had gone to his own room with the caustic comment that if he remained in my company in his present humor he would say something to make me angry. Then, unable to fix my mind upon my work I went into my room, undressed and got into bed, adjusting my reading lamp and taking a magazine in the hope that I would get to sleep quickly and be enabled to arise at an extra early hour upon the morrow. In that way I could make up the time lost from my work by the inexplicable lack of concentration which was mine.

But I could not get to sleep. I told myself scornfully that I had become so much a creature of routine in the last few weeks that any deviation from it upset me as much as if I were a spinster school teacher of the old time. Every evening had been the same, after 9:30 the hour when I took Dicky's young niece her hot milk and tucked her into bed. From that time until midnight I put into shape the results of the research work for Philip Veritzen which had busied me during the day. It was a time when I was uninterrupted, for Dicky rarely came home before 11 and then went directly to his room and his task of manuscript reading.

Queer fancies beset me as I lay trying to read. I felt as if unseen eyes were watching me, and several times I was sure that I heard stealthy rustlings outside my door on the private staircase which led from Mary's room to mine. Once, indeed with a malediction upon my own folly, I arose and went to the door of the staircase, but, of course, found it empty.

My conscience, too, had its inning, flagellating me for being so preoccupied with my fascinating new work that I had not noticed Dicky's indisposition, so patent now to my eyes. His gibe at my present unconcern as contrasted with my past worry on his account rankled all the more deeply in my memory because I knew that it was deserved.

Yet I knew that I would be doing myself less than justice if I shouldered all the blame for the undeniable estrangement intangible but dangerous, which had grown up between my husband and me. Surely Dicky had given me ample cause for resentment in the years since our wedding day. I broke off this train of thought promptly, scorning to hide behind it, and promising myself that I would let no remembrance of past injuries interfere with the very real concern I felt for his welfare.

As it happened, however, I had no opportunity to give my good resolutions any concrete expression for several days. Exhausted by long vigil, for it was nearly dawn before I finally slept, I did not waken until long after breakfast.

"I try vake you oop," Katie told me later when I appeared in the kitchen. "Und Missis Bickett, she try. But you shoost say, 'Go vay, let me sleep.' So ve tink ve better do dot-leetle ting. Before Meester Graham go to vork he go to door und spik to you, but you no answer, so he say, 'Let her sleep till she vake oop herself,' und den he go avay."

I choked back an unpardonable impulse to ask my little maid if Dicky had been angry, for nothing annoys him so much as my being sleepy when he wishes to talk to me. But later I received an answer to my unspoken question when the telephone rang, and I heard the smooth, musical voice of Edith Fairfax.

"Oh, Madge!" she said. "Dicky wants me to tell you that he's been called out of town suddenly; won't be back until late Friday, but he'll surely be on time for Mrs. Underwood's dinner. He's sending a messenger up right away and wants to know if you'll have Katie check up on his traveling bag and give it to the boy."

"Surely," I said cordially. "I'll attend to it at once. Goodby."

But the hand which hung up the receiver was trembling.

BODY COVERED WITH TORTURING ECZEMA

Doctor prescribed soothing home remedy and healed trouble

Eolia, Mo., Aug. 19:—"Some months ago my daughter developed a bad case of eczema which spread almost all over her body. After days and weeks of distress caused by this skin trouble from which she could get no relief our physician prescribed Resinol Ointment. The first few applications brought signs of healing and the burning sensation was less severe. After several weeks' use of the product not a symptom of this terrible trouble remained. I hope others will be helped as my daughter was by your wonderful Resinol Ointment."—(Signed) Mrs. M. F. Downing, Route 1.

Resinol Ointment is also a soothing, healing dressing for minor burns, sores, rashes, etc. Your druggist sells it. Keep a jar handy.

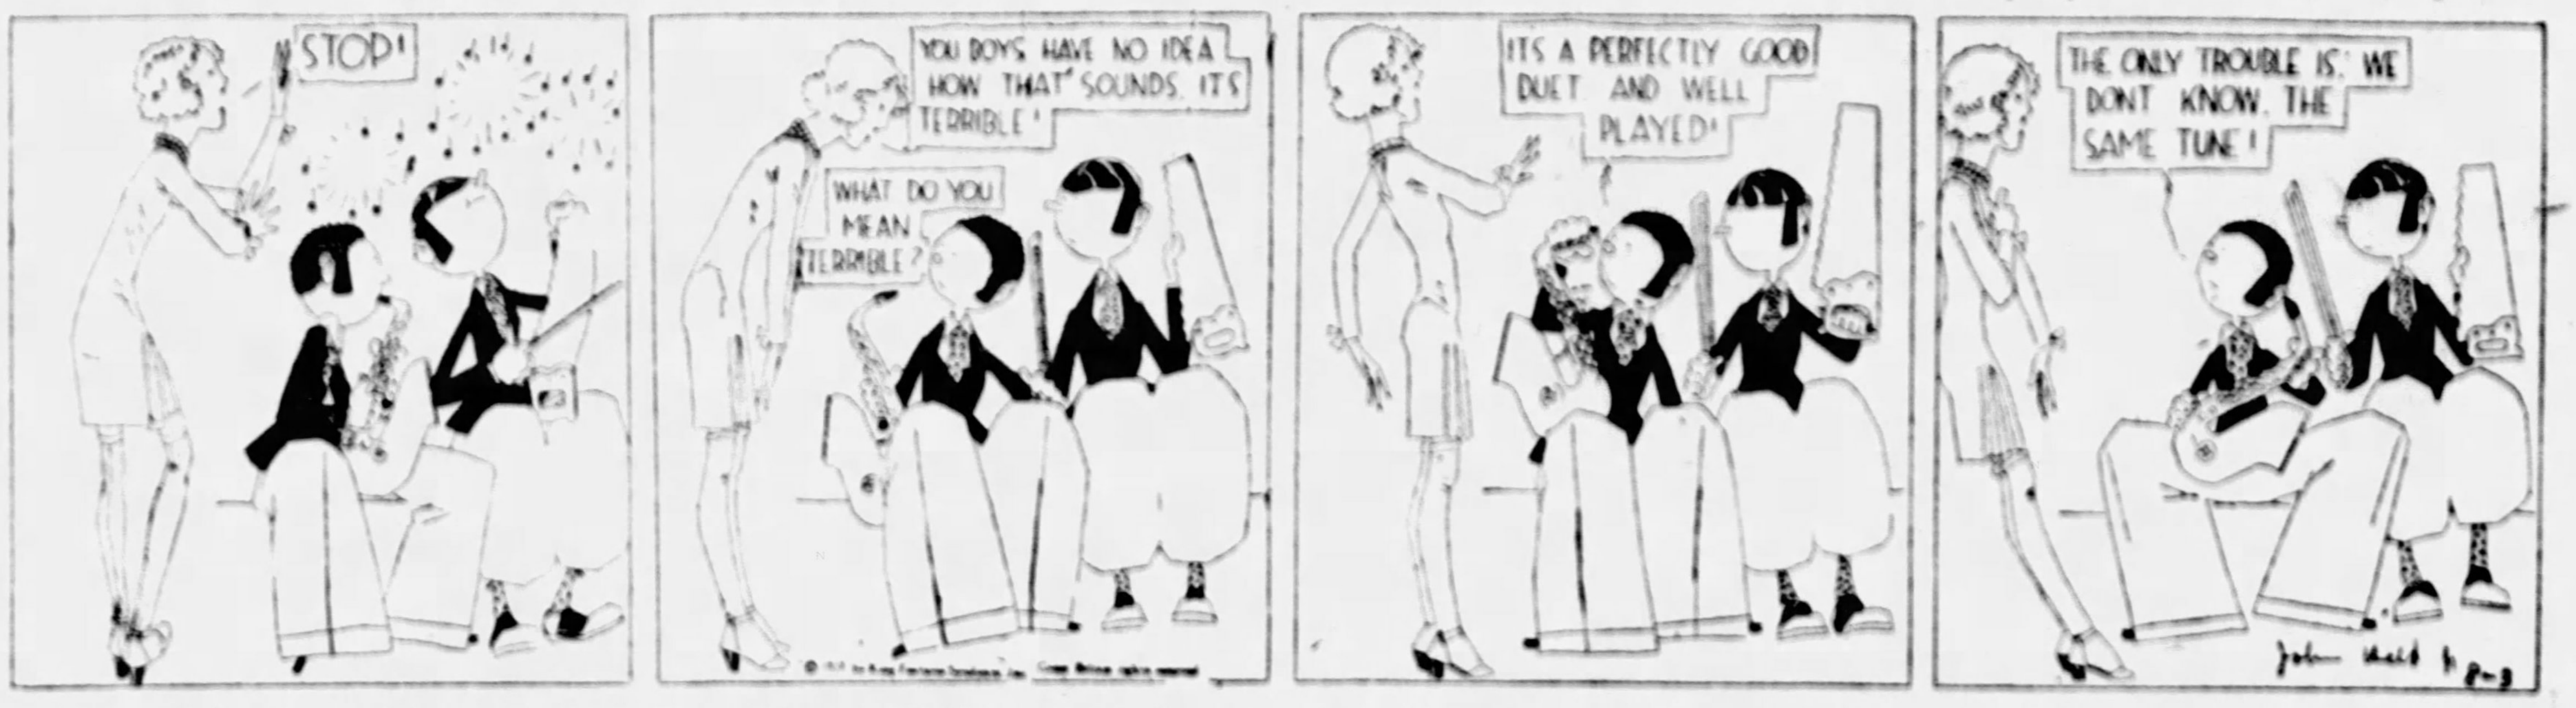
Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

Story by Lloyd Mayer

By John Held, Jr.



STOP!
YOU BOYS HAVE NO IDEA HOW THAT SOUNDS. ITS TERRIBLE!
WHAT DO YOU MEAN TERRIBLE?
ITS A PERFECTLY GOOD DUET AND WELL PLAYED!
THE ONLY TROUBLE IS: WE DONT KNOW THE SAME TUNE!

"My dear, I simply can't COPE with the situation at this point! I mean, it's comPLETEly out of conTROL, because these LEFT-handed ducks, ARab and NOIsy, have developed a MUsical complex at this point, my dear—can you BEAR it? I mean, sort of disCOVered them playing MADly and, my dear, I NEARLY had hysTERics, because you have honestly never HEARD such a perfectly BILious duET. It SOUNDed like NOTHing HUman, because ARab was sort of making odd SOUNDS on this SAXophone effect and NOIsy had this poisonous SAW, do you know what I mean? HONestly, my dear, I was practically ready to ROLL over and BUTter myself with disMAY, because, when I sort of CASurally inCINerated it sounded SIMply VILE, this perVERted ARab looked ABsolutely nonPLUSSED. I mean, he was actually all hot and BOTHered, because he REally seemed deeply GRIEVED at my lack of appreciAtion, or something, because I mean he sort of exPLAINED to me that they were really BOTH playing terribly WELL, and all, only the TROUble was they didn't know the same TUNE! Can you BEAR it, my dear? HONestly, I think it's the most SOBbing idea I've ever HEARD of—I mean I ACtually DO!"

The Married Life of Helen and Warren

HELEN'S TELEPHONE STRATEGY STIMULATES A REAL-ESTATE DEAL.

By Mabel Herbert Urner

SOMETHING wrong. Warren dispatching his dinner in the grim silence that always followed a bad day at the office.

Sensitive to his every mood, Helen tried to distract him. But her forced cheerfulness was ineffective against his glowering depression.

"Dear, is that too done for you?" glancing over at the roast. "Cut a rarer piece—from the center."

"This is all right," with dismissing indifference.

Yes, something very wrong! Apathy about food—a serious symptom.

Longing to question him. But knowing she couldn't—only irritate him more.

Still trying to make conversation, but his replies monosyllabic. Each topic curtly dismissed.

No longer able to restrain an anxious,

"Dear, did anything go wrong at the office?"

"Everything!" viciously spearing a pickled beet. "Miss Ellis went home with an ulcerated tooth. Be out a couple of days. John made another fool mistake—no excuse for it. And the fan's out of commission—hot as blazes down there."

Helen stirring her iced tea. That wasn't all! Sensing the main grievance had not been mentioned.

Warren now savagely digging out his baked potato.

"By the way, Dodson's not going to take that Baywood lot."

So that was it!

"He isn't? Why, the day we were out there he was so enthusiastic!"

"Just four-flushing. Serves me right for tryin' to do business with friends."

"Why, dear, he was the one that was anxious," propitiatingly.

"Not anxious now. Not a word from him. The Homesite people were in today—made a firm offer—2,000. This salt's all stuck. Have to let 'em know tomorrow," knocking the shaker. "Think I'll take it."

"Only 2000? Try this one," clearing the holes with a fork. "Why, Mr. Dodson offered 2,400."

"Yes, but he's not coming across. Shove over those crumbs here. I'm not in the real estate business—don't want to hold that lot. They're building on both sides—now's the time to sell."

"But why isn't he taking it? Don't you want them in a side dish? What excuse did he give?"

"Didn't give any. Let's have some ice in this tea. Just didn't show up."

"Does he know you're selling it to the Homesite Company?" touching the bell.

"Wrote him if he wanted it to let me know. Didn't even answer."

"Maybe he didn't get the letter. More ice for Mr. Curtis' tea, Katie. And another piece for the butter. You didn't phone him?"

"I should hope not!" explosively. "Not hounding my friends to make a sale."

"Doing business with friends"—one of Warren's pet aversions. His deeprooted conviction that friends and money transactions should never be combined.

But the extra 400 spurred Helen to further protests.

"Dear, you ought to give him a chance before you close it."

"Yes, a chance to turn me down," cynically. "Jove, this rhubarb's sour! Out of sugar?"

"I told her not to put so much," passing the bowl. "The last was too sweet."

Welcoming his criticism. More himself. Anything better than that depressing silence.

Still thinking of the 400. Hard to believe Mr. Dodson had not been serious. He had seemed so eager—had bought two lots in the rear.

Through the salad and prune whip, Warren volunteered no further information.

"Box of cigars come today?" when he shoved back from the table.

"Why, no, dear. Nothing came but those B batteries."

"Rotten service. Ordered those cigars right after breakfast. Now I'll have to go down in this heat and get some." Then, grumblingly shrugging on his coat, "You women can go half naked—but we mustn't show our shirt-sleeves."

Helping Katie clear the table, Helen's thoughts still riveted on the Baywood lot.

Four hundred dollars less! What had cooled Mr. Dodson's enthusiasm?

Warren afraid to seem insistent. Too proud to telephone.

Why couldn't she? Not to him, of course—but Mrs. Dodson. Just mention the lot casually—most casually. Something about Warren closing with the Homesite Company. Sorry Mr. Dodson wasn't getting it——

Why not? The impulse irresistible!

Dropping the half-folded tablecloth, she flew to the telephone. Quick—before Warren got back. He would be furious if he knew——

But the operator maddeningly slow. Impatiently jiggling the receiver hook.

"Hello! I'd like to speak to Mrs. Dodson . . . . No, just say I phoned." Then, with a knowing-she-shouldn't recklessness, "Oh, Mr. Dodson. I'm SO sorry you did not get that Baywood lot . . . . Why, the Homesite Company is taking it. . . . Not yet—in the morning——"

The hall door slammed.

"Oh, thank you so much. Yes, I will—yes, I'd love to! Yes, yes—goodby!"

What would he think? Afraid Warren would hear, she had cut him off with her meaningless chatter.

"I was just phoning Mrs. Stevens," turning from the desk.

Then hating herself for the needless lie. As though he gave a thought to her calls! But always when guilty she resorted nervously to unnecessary evasions.

"Hot as ginger in here," peeling off his coat. "Worse'n the office."

"All the windows are open. But that awning's down. Put that up—we'll get more breeze."

"No breeze to get," jerking up the awning.

"If it would only rain. Is that thunder? Are you hot, too?" stooping to pet Pussy Purr-Mew, stretched out like a long limp ostrich feather.

Warren settled with his paper, she returned to the dining room. Folding the tablecloth into the sideboard drawer. Setting the bowl of asters on her Italian centerpiece.

What had Mr. Dodson started to say? Why hadn't she let him finish? Furious at her stupidity. Warren would not have heard him—she had only to be guarded in what she said.

He was never suspicious, never curious about her calls. Yet her feeling of guilt had prompted that senseless chatter.

What would Mr. Dodson think? Would he understand? A woman would—but a man so obtuse. Not alert to feminine subterfuge.

It was almost nine when the door bell rang.

"Guess that's those cigars." Warren threw down his paper.

"Wait, dear, I'll go," starting up with a swift premonition.

Yes, Mr. Dodson! But no chance to explain or warn him. Warren, impatient for his cigars, had followed her out.

"Just got back from Albany. Thought I'd run in and see about that lot," Mr. Dodson plunged into his errand.

"Why, I thought you were off that. All set to close with the Homesite people."

"Not at all. I was called away Tuesday." Fanning himself with his hat, he dropped into a chair. "Thought it was all understood."

"Well, doing business with friends, you never know where you stand," shrugged Warren ungraciously.

"That's a dig!" with a good-natured laugh. "But I've a habit of keeping my word. I'll be in tomorrow—about 11. You have the contract ready and we'll close it up."

Aglow with exultancy, she cut lemons and cracked ice.

Four hundred dollars! Her telephone call had earned that. But she dared not tell Warren. Wild if he thought she had "meddled."

Even her slightest suggestion about his business resented. Anything approaching interference made him rabid.

So unreasonable! There were times when she really could help. But he seemed to think her least suggestion a reflection on his ability.

When she returned with the tinkling tray, they were smoking and talking of other things.

More thunder. A heat storm brewing. The curtains blowing in. A door slammed. A smell of hot pavements.

Starting to rain when a little later Mr. Dodson rose to go.

"I'm all in from that trip. Didn't sleep last night—hotel room like an oven. But I'm glad you called up—glad to get this thing straight."

"Called up?" brusqued Warren. "What's the joke? I didn't call."

"Why, I— Oh, no, that's right!" catching Helen's frantic glance. "It—it was Bailey. He said you were about to close with the Homesite crowd. Thought I'd better get busy."

"Bailey? That's funny. Here, take this umbrella. How in blazes'd he know?"

"No thanks, I'll taxi over. Bailey hears everything. Well, it doesn't matter," hastily. "Settled now. See you tomorrow at 11."

A telegraphic thank-you glance to Helen, a brisk good-night, and he was gone.

"Bailey?" puzzled Warren, filling his before-bed pipe. "How the Sam Hill did Bailey get wind of it?"

"I'm sure I don't know, dear," nervously gather up the glasses.

"See here, there's something flukey about this!" Then, explosively, "Did YOU phone Dodson?"

"Why—why, how absurd!" wiping a wet ring from the polished mahogany.

"That's just what you did!" savagely. "What'd you say? Out with it!"

"Why, not a thing," shrinking from his infuriated glare. "I—I called Mrs. Dodson and he answered the phone. And I—I just mentioned——"

"Butted in with one of your underhand tricks, eh?"

"There was nothing underhand about it!" flamingly. "I just said I was sorry he wasn't getting the lot. I knew he wanted it—and you wouldn't phone him——"

"So YOU did! So keen about that measly 400 you had to edge in! I'm not capable of running my affairs, eh? Have to have help from you!"

"Warren you're SO unreasonable! Can't I show the slightest interest——"

"Interest!" he snorted. "Meddling, you mean! How does it look to Dodson? He thinks I put you up to it. Ring in my wife to pull off the sale of a measly lot! Now I'm not so hard up that I have to do business that way. Your job's the house. Guess I can run my office without any of your horning in!"

For the Lovelorn

By ELEANOR GALE

Lonesome.

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a bachelor in my forties. I have a very devoted friend of whom I think a great deal, and she says she thinks a great deal of me. I have three maiden sisters older than myself. When I go to see my friend my sisters sit up till I come home. Then they fuss and fight with me and say that I shall not marry her or anyone else. We are all in business together. My home is very unhappy and I fear they are turning my dear one against me. What shall I do?

LONESOME.

Your sisters are being very unfair to you and your friend, and I don't think you should permit it any longer. They are making you miserable and ruining your home life by their constant bickering, and if allowed to continue in this manner they will most likely cause you to lose the love and respect of your friend. You must realize that it is merely selfishness on their part, for they fear the influence of this woman over you and they are afraid lest you marry her and thereby upset their well ordered routine. Women of their age fight against the intrusion of a younger woman and dread it above all things. As their younger brother you have probably been dominated and ruled by them all your life, and I think it is time that you were showing a little independence. You must break away from these unnatural bonds now and once and for all declare your independence and right to live your own life. Talk to your sisters with frankness and firmness and tell them that they are no longer privileged to meddle in your affairs. Of course, you must explain the selfishness of your sisters to your friend so she will understand the situation. If she returns the deep affection you have for her, why don't you marry her?

Right or Wrong.

DEAR MISS GALE:

I've been a silent reader for two years and I think your advice is wonderful. Miss Gale, here is my problem: I met a fellow and I kept steady company with him, but now I fell out with him. I didn't tell him the reason why I fell out with him. He wrote to me, but I never answered his letters and he called me up on the phone, but I refused to speak on the phone with him. My mother is forcing me to go with him. I told her I don't care what she does I won't go with him. One day he wrote a letter to mother asking if he could come out. I told her that I don't want him to come out. One night he came over and wanted to see me. I went out and he wanted to know what was the reason that I fell out. I told him I met another fellow that I like his company better than I do his own. He said, "It's all right then if I found some one else." He doesn't want a girl to go with him that doesn't care for his company. And no more had he got through saying that he asked me when could he come out to see me. I told him I didn't want him to come out. I ran into the house and never saw him since. Miss Gale, I hate him, for I can not stand him. I went with him for four months for the sake of my people. Miss Gale, I love this other fellow better than anybody. Do you think that my mother is right or wrong? Miss Gale, when he came over to see me he never had clean clothes on. Now this other fellow is a very neat dresser. I guess this letter is long now. I wish you good luck and best regards. I thank you very much for your space. Am I right or wrong? I will sign myself as

If you dislike this boy, then don't permit anyone to try to force you to see him. You are quite right in refusing.

Blue Eyes.

DEAR MISS GALE:

Please inform me as to whether it is correct for the bride to give the groom a gift.

My Son's Sweethearts

By IDA McG. GIBSON.

"Was Natlee having trouble with her car?" Mrs. Tracy asked serenely.

"I think, Mum, she was having more trouble with herself. I think she was weeping a little. She said she missed Rod greatly.

"That makes me think, the car she was driving was much like the one you gave me so long ago. I wonder if by any circumstances she might have purchased it. I think I'll go around and see if they've sold it."

Phillip kissed his mother and left the room sedately. The moment he was out of sight of the house, however, he unconsciously quickened his pace. To find out who had bought his blue roadster seemed to him the most important thing in the world at present. He wanted to get his hands on the wheel of it again.

At the salesroom he was told it was bought by Mr. Jerome Kenyon, and he took the information almost as a personal insult. That fate should parcel out one of his most cherished possessions to his rival while he was away tramping through the rain and mud of France, was a joke he didn't like.

Fortunately, there was a smart model of an English car of the same color on the floor. He bought it then and there, but his heart sank as he wrote the check. The contrast between his feelings as he gave orders to have the much better car sent around to his house and his memory of that day when he and Natlee went driving up the street at 65 miles an hour in the one his mother gave him, was too great.

This was just another car. The other was pure, unadulterated joy.

He had just gotten to the door of the salesroom when he met Jerome Kenyon face to face.

"Hello, Phil. Trying to buy back your car? I'll sell it to you if you wish."

"Thanks, Jerry. I've just bought another."

"Oh, new car?—and a new affair with Mrs. Hilliard? Wish you luck. She's had lots of practice while you've been away."

Phillip Tracy had just been on the point of walking outside, but now he suddenly saw red.

He wheeled and smashed a stinging blow, right in Jerry's face.

Kenyon staggered, then recovering himself, he rushed toward Phil.

"Stay away from me, Kenyon, unless you're wanting some more."

Instead of answering, Jerry planted a blow under Phillip's ear. "Take that, damn you."

Phillip's fist again connected with Jerry's face.

At that moment they were separated by some of the salesmen on the floor. The blood was trickling from Jerry Kenyon's mouth. Coughing, he tried to raise his left hand to wipe it off. He spat out two teeth.

"Let me go," begged Kenyon. "Let me get at him."

"All right, boys, let him go," said Phil. "He hasn't got enough yet. He evidently is not as tired of fighting as I am."

"You go to hell, Tracy, and take Mrs. Hilliard with you."

Phillip almost broke away from the men who were holding him, but at last he consented to calm down. With a derisive smile, he opened the door and walked to the curb, where he signaled a taxi and ordered the chauffeur to drive to his home.

"BETTY" By FAITH BALDWIN

The Fascinating Love Story of a Girl of the Present Day

Betty Is Rescued by Harry, But Lorrimer Finds a Way Back to Her

postponed reward of necessary patience.

Lorrimer sent flowers. And his new book, "Rainbow's End," with a dedication "To her without whose help this book could not have been written."

It might mean her. Betty softened—a little.

There was a letter, too. It teemed with self-abasement, humility and contrition. Lorrimer begged for her forgiveness. He declared his love for her.

After long thought Betty wrote: "Dear Mr. Lorrimer:

"About your letter. I hardly know what to say. It was also very dreadful and I want to forget all about it. But I think you mean what you say. Of course I can't see you again. I don't think it would be very wise for us to meet, but I want you to know that I do accept your explanation and that I wish you great success with the book and am

Your friend,
BETTY WARREN."

Then she felt better. Her spirits were further revived by a visit from Gladys, who had accepted Harry.

When Betty returned to the office she had only one thing to worry about. Helen had been acting strangely, secretively. She had money. Where she got it she kept to herself.

Lorrimer meantime was asking himself, "Is she beginning to forget? Is she beginning to miss me?"

He found himself wanting the girl he could not have . . . could not have dishonorably, that is. He still thought that if he were willing to pay the price he could have her honorably.

But he was not yet desperate enough to offer himself, his riches, his glories and his laurels. Not yet. Not he.

The news of the motion picture sale of his book, "Rainbow's End," reached the papers and therefore Helen and Betty. Betty read of it with little interest. Soon she was to find it a source of apprehension.

It came out that Helen's strange conduct was in pursuit of her ambition to help the family—and to get away from school. She had been performing as an "extra" in the motion picture studio in Astoria. Betty protested. Helen vowed she would not quit.

At the studio she met Lorrimer. He had been attracted by her beauty, her naturalness, and desired her for his book-picture. Learning who she was he determined to use their professional association to get Betty back.

Helen was engaged to play Cynara, the flapper part in "Rainbow's End." Betty in a panic of sisterly solicitude, wracked her brain for a means of saving Helen from Lorrimer.

She feared his intentions.

Lorrimer pressed his advantage. Betty readmitted him to her home that she might the better watch over Helen.

That began it. He came over, friendly, debonair, picking up the threads, as if they never had been broken. And Helen stayed in the room with them and took a good deal of the burden of conversation.

Lorrimer was keeping a tight rein on himself and playing his own particular game for all he was worth. The resumption of friendly relations with Betty had meant more to him than he had dreamed it could mean, even in the blackest hours of frustrated desire. She seemed lovelier, more to be longed for, more adorable.

He began to toy with the thought of marriage. But decidedly, Mr. Anson Lorrimer was not a "marrying man."

"I'm thinking of getting married," he told Betty abruptly. "She won't have me, of course," gloomily. "And I haven't the courage to ask her . . . not yet. But—"

She knew that Lorrimer meant her. Despite her distrust of him, she was tempted.

After all, he had made the amende honorable.

Oh, she loved Bob. She always would. But their relations, since the first trouble, had been unnatural and strained.

Lorrimer was well satisfied with his evening's work. Betty should be disarmed. But he had said nothing to which she or anybody could hold him.

The next move was up to her, he told himself.

Although Betty saw Lorrimer with a moderated frequency after that evening, he never again referred to his opening of that night. Naturally, being a woman, this attitude enlisted her interest. Helen found herself wondering just what the situation was between the two.

Once when Betty referred to Lorrimer's kindness in helping Helen to her chance, the younger girl shrugged.

"Oh, that's all eyewash," she said. "He thought I'd be good in the part of his little flapper and he picked me. Of course, when he found out who I was he was more interested—on your account. I think you had better watch that bird. He's got a couple of aces or something up his sleeve. I heard at the studio today that they can't get the leading woman he wants for the picture—Rita Mendez—that there's some talk about engaging a lulu named Lorna May for the part. And she is the bright little star who sued your boy friend for breach of promise back in the Dark Ages. They say he paid her ten thousand. That will be a pretty little meeting between two old pals, wont it? Honest, I'd watch him, Betty. He's my idea of zero, plus nothing at all and multiplied about eleven times."

Betty said nothing. It was quite evident to her that if she did yield to the temptation to smooth her way and that of her family by marriage with Lorrimer, Helen would not be among those applauding.

The mention of Lorrimer and Lorna May made her uneasy. She had heard something of it before and had not listened, deliberately.

When Lorrimer learned that Lorna May was to be leading woman he was distressed. He protested. His objections were futile. Lorna's influence outweighed his interest.

She tried to re-win him. But his concern was all for Helen—with Betty beyond.

Lorna dug among his acquaintances for the truth, which her shrewd mind suspected. Sonia Brunn and Peter Leaways furnished enlightenment. Leaways visited the studio to see for himself if Lorna's story was true. He was attracted to Helen.

She liked him, but instinctively distrusted him, as she distrusted all rich men.

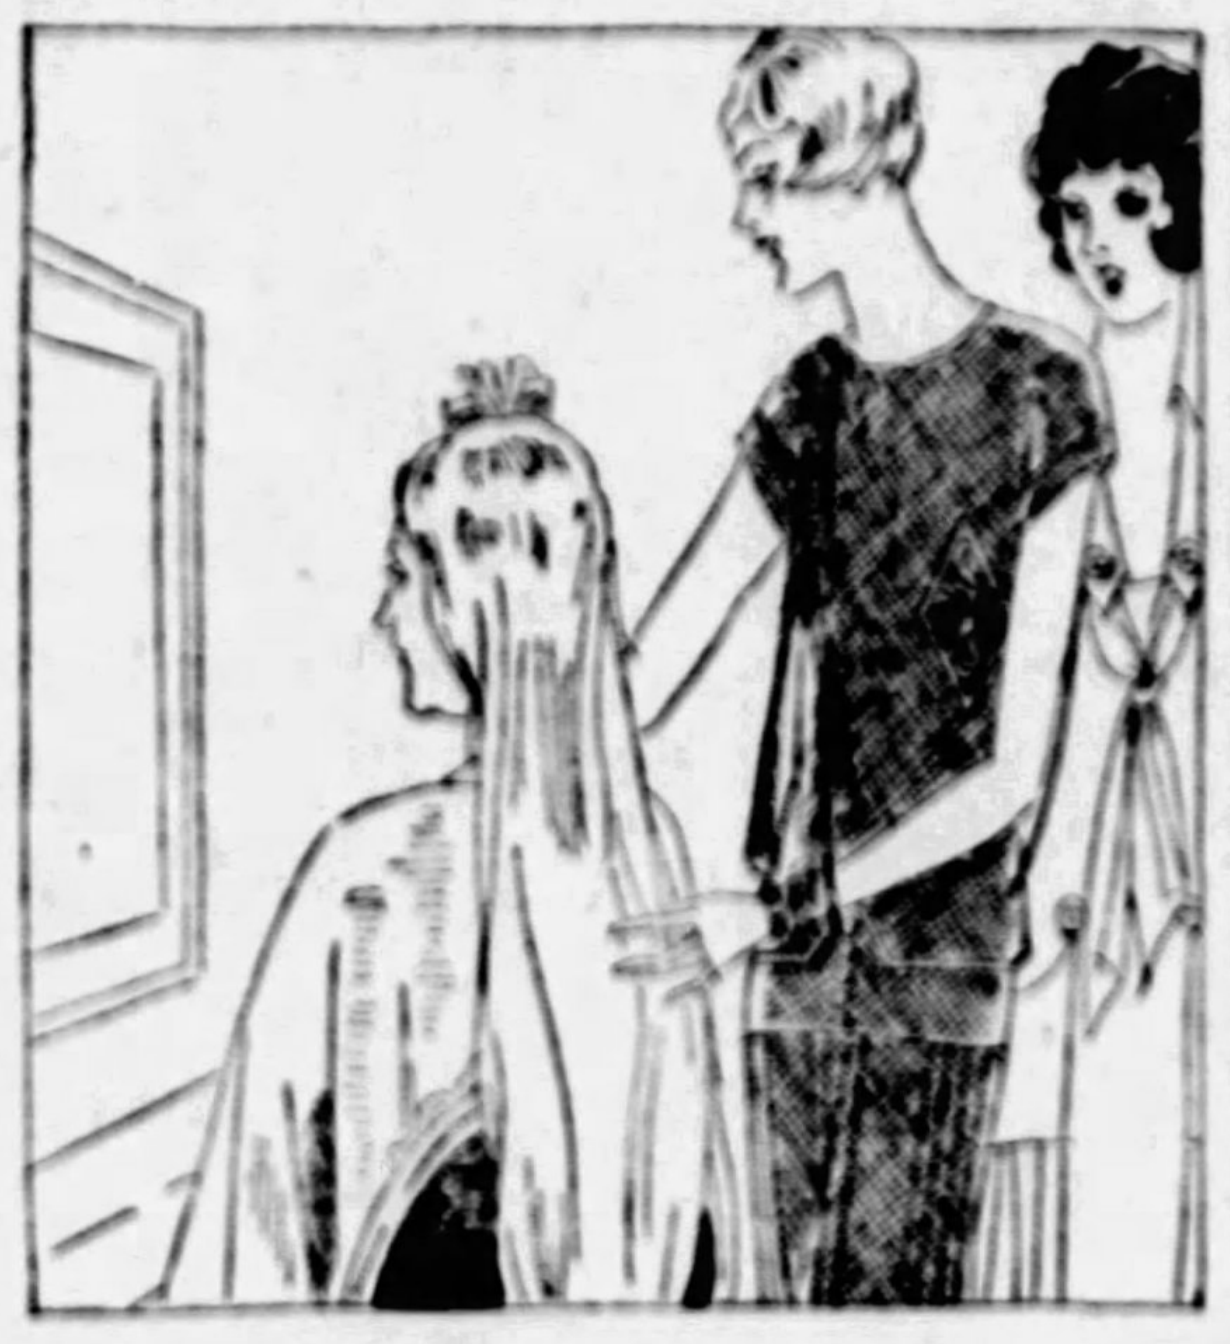
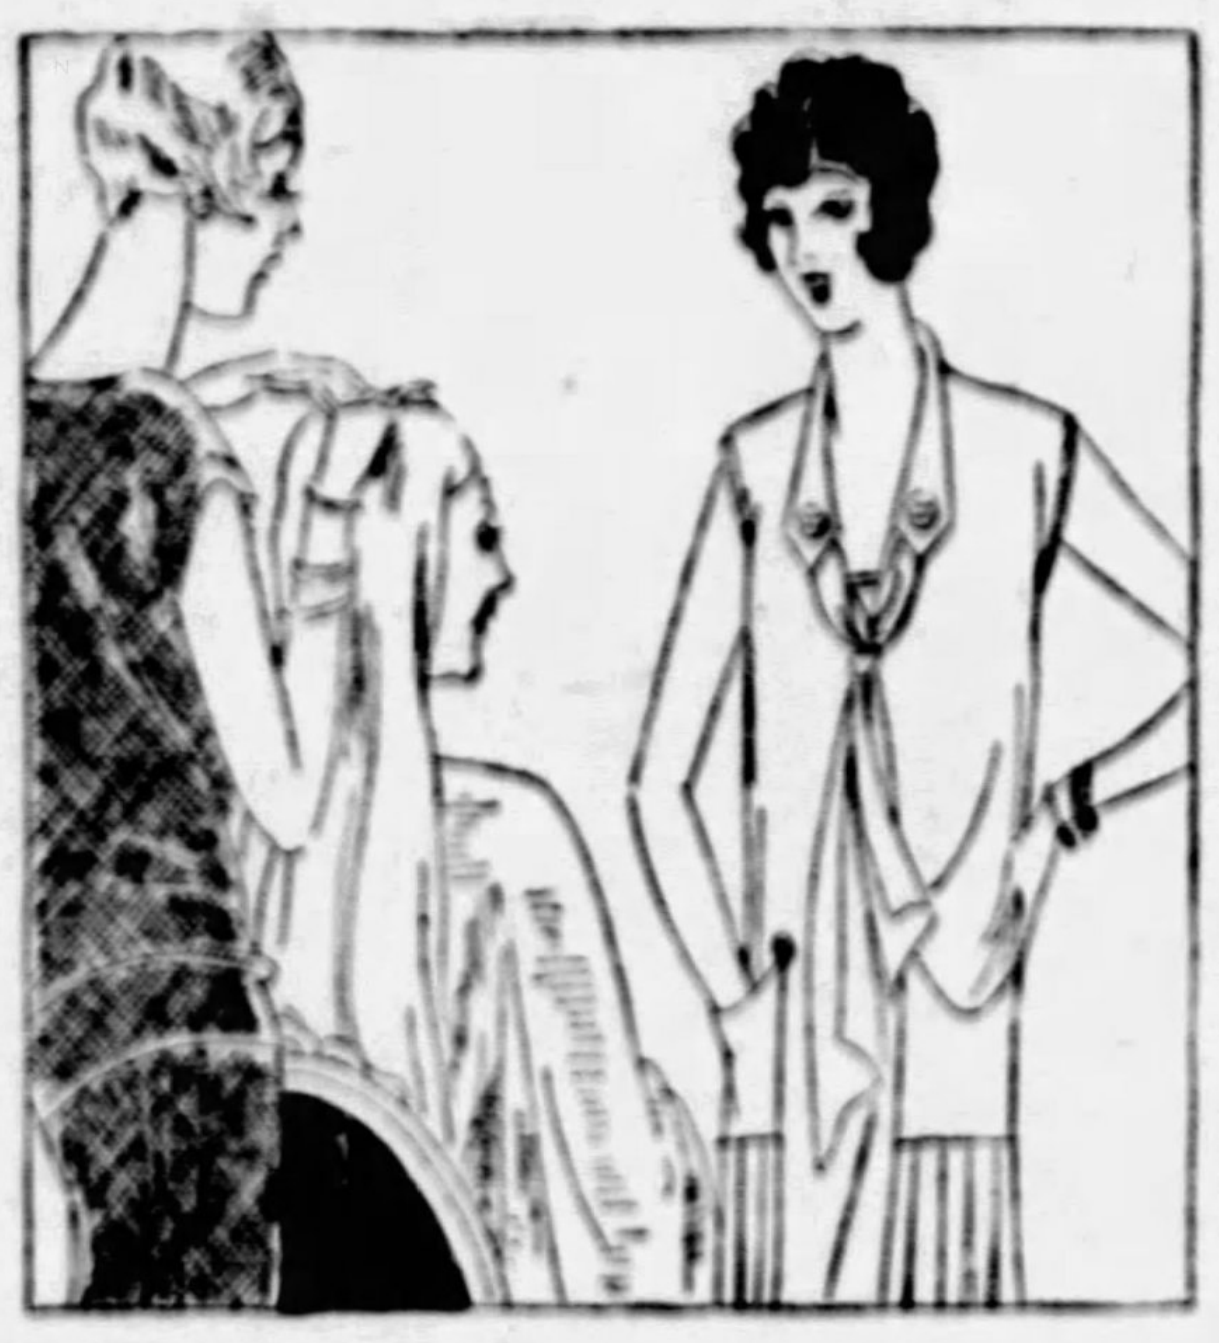
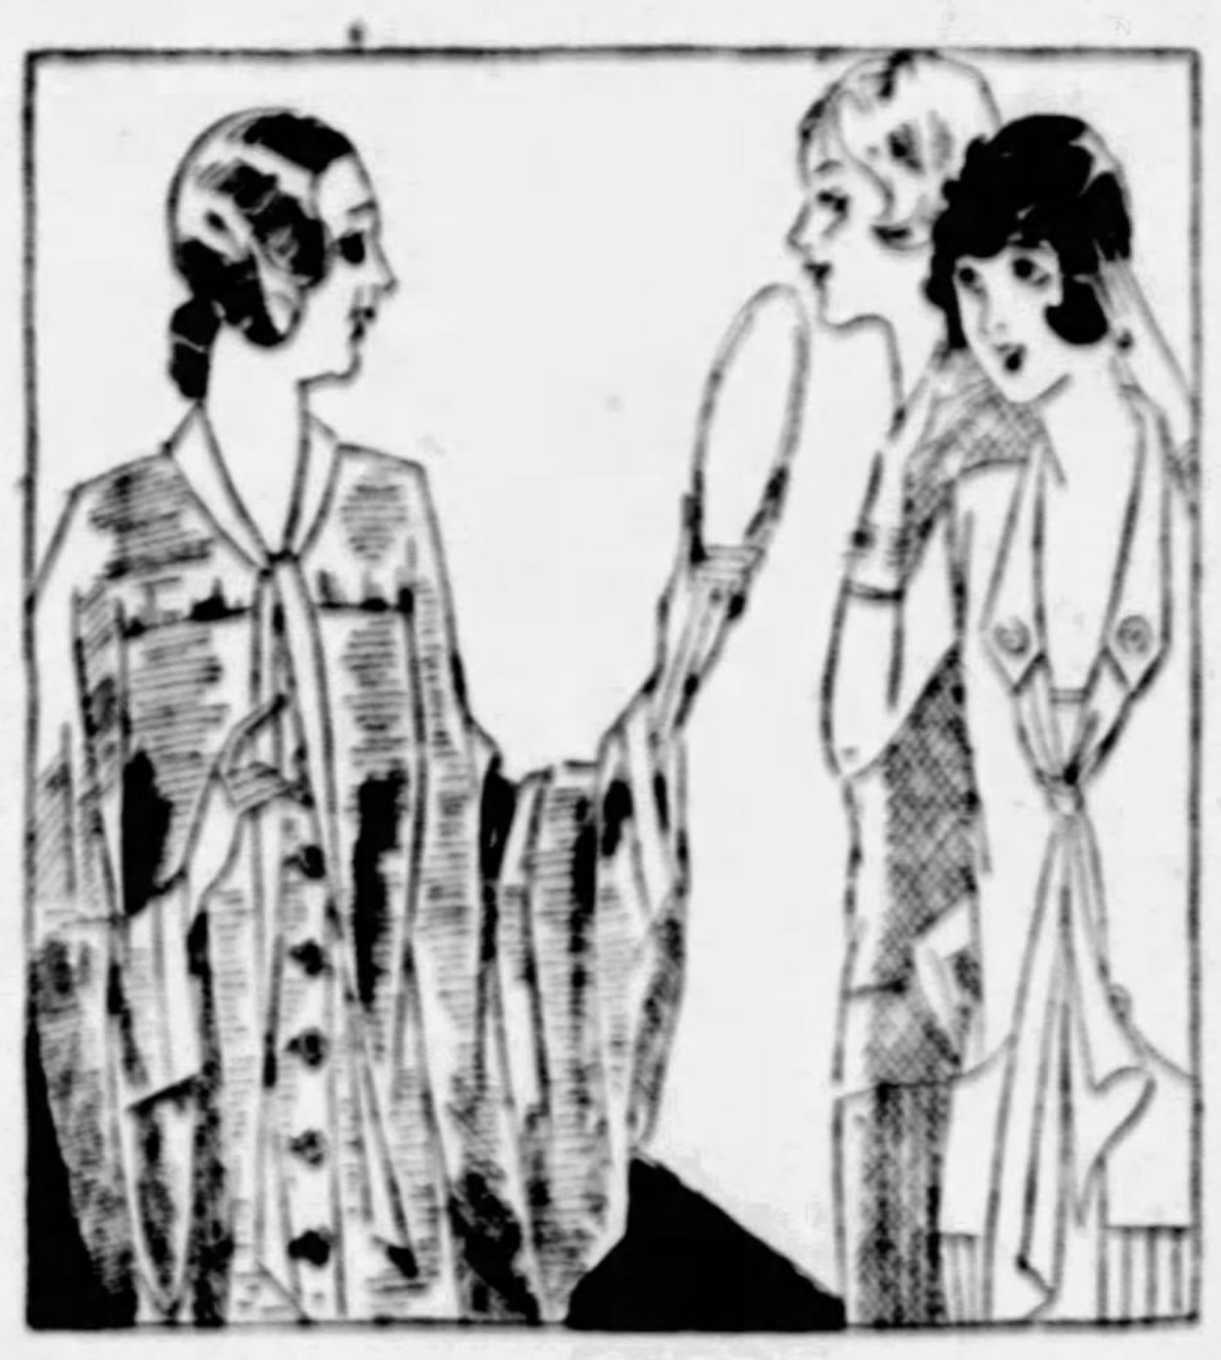
CHIC CHERIE -:- Rejuvenating a Specialty. -:- LATEST FASHIONS



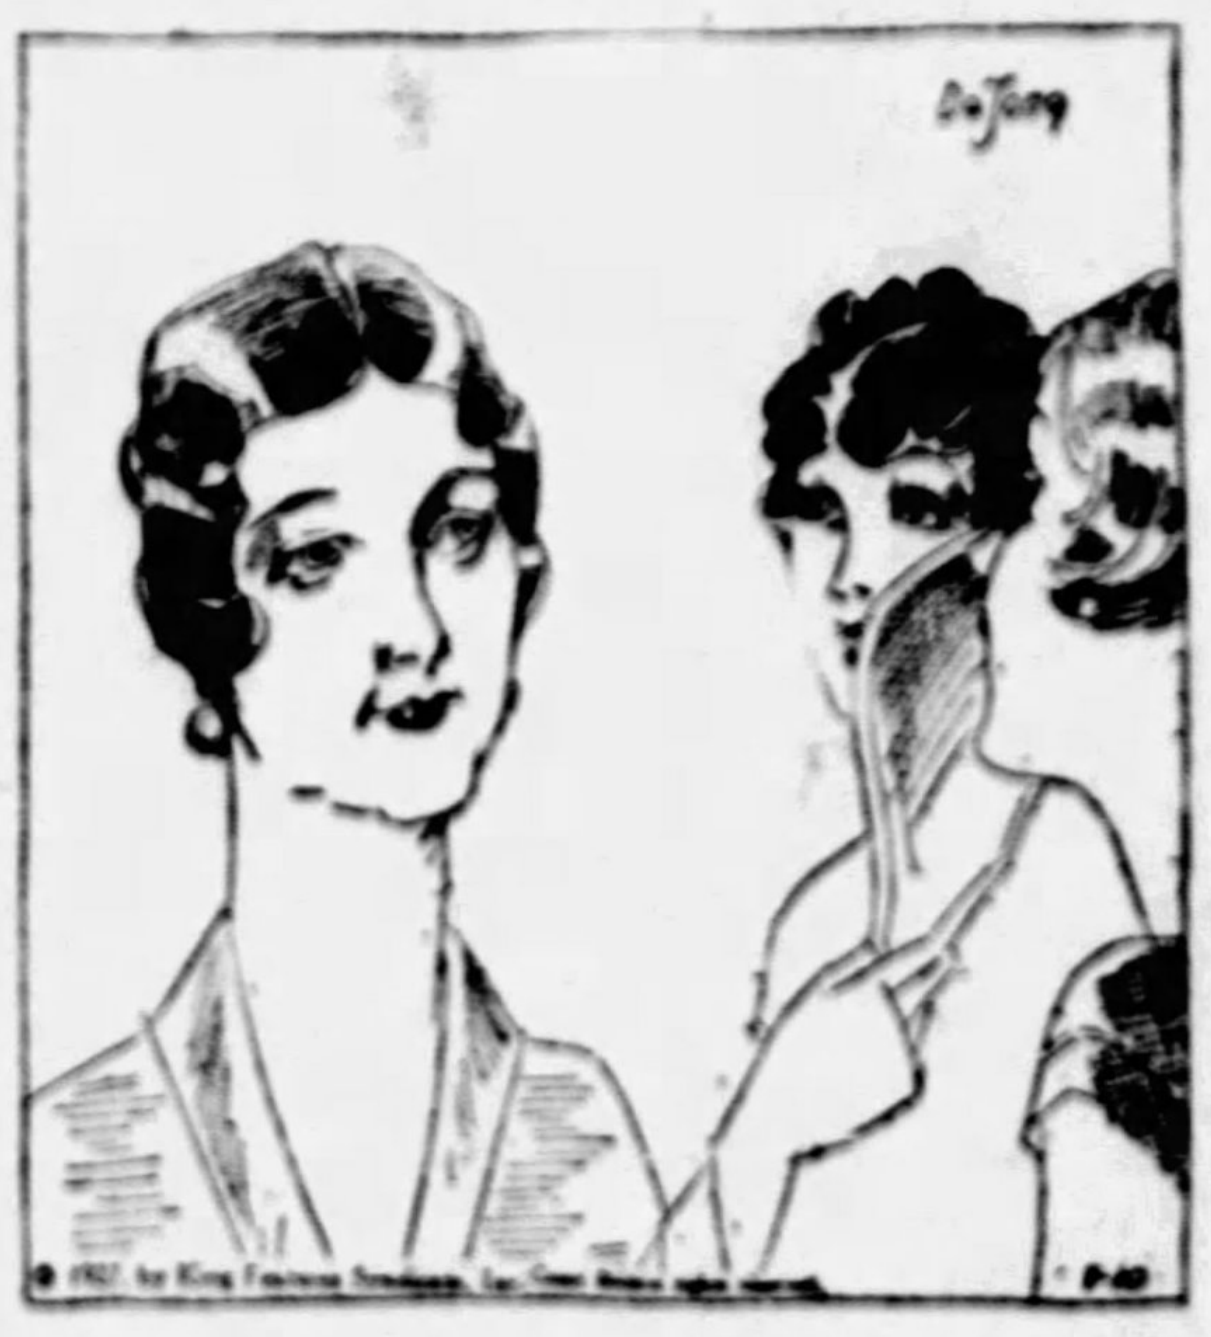
It is time, says Cherie, that Aunt Em should discard her youthful follies and vanities such as hair that is long enough to sit on. She'll cut off a couple of feet of it so that it's short enough to comb smartly. She starts her task dressed in a sleeveless monogrammed frock of washable silk crepe.



Dina makes an admiring and admirable chorus. It's easy for Dina, she's been in lots of them. Dina is chorusing here in a sleeveless dress of pastel blue washable crepe with a delightfully wide front tie and a delightfully large side pocket. Aunt Em has lost two feet of hair and is about to lose more.



Aunt Em's robe is a modern one of blue silk with looped sleeves, a yoke and large buttons down the front. Aunt Em's coiffure is modern, too, but Aunt Em's feelings about it are slightly less than very early mediaeval. She is just remarking that she wore her hair this way thirty years ago.



Cherie cut off three feet more of Aunt Em's hair and now, as she remarks, Aunt Em can sit on it any time she wants. This is the smartest short hair arrangement for anyone over thirty and as Aunt Em is a truthful woman she would never in the world pretend to be more than a month or two less.

Building and Flying Model Airplanes

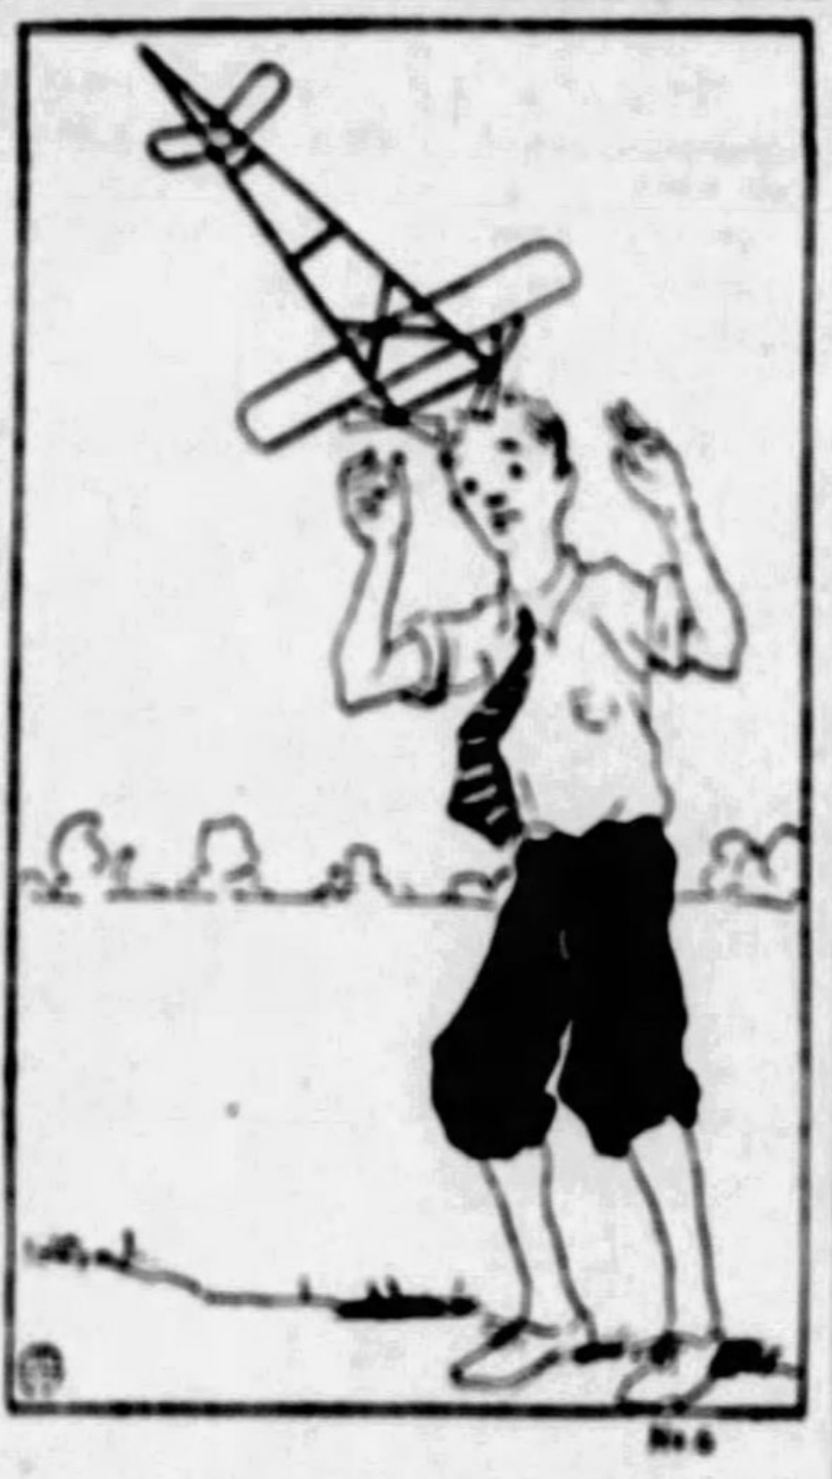
By PAUL EDWARD GARBER,
In Charge of Aeronautics, Smithsonian Institution.

Flying the Model

Model airplane S-S-1 is now ready to fly.

If you have carried out carefully the directions given in the five previous articles, you will find that the model is capable of flying at least 500 feet, probably more.

Select a large field for trying it out. The field should be free of trees or other obstructions, and should be level. Preferably the ground should be covered with long grass to cushion the landings. It is suggested that the wings be removed from the model while carrying it from your home to the field to prevent damage to it.



The winding of the model is somewhat of a long job, inasmuch as about 600 turns are to be stored in each set of rubbers, therefore if you have a geared hand drill make a hook with a straight shank, fit it in the drill chuck and take this tool along with you to the field for winding. When you get to the field, get away from any bordering trees and prepare to fly the model with the wind; therefore go to the edge of the field from which the wind is blowing.

ASSEMBLING

Assemble the model in the manner explained yesterday and launch it for several preliminary glides before winding it in order to balance it. If the model dives down too rapidly, move the elevator slightly forward and try another glide. If the model climbs and stalls too much, move the elevator back or cut a thin slice off the elevator block. The large wing may also be moved correspondingly forward or backward to balance the model. Continue adjustments until the model glides forward nicely. If you are not equipped with a geared winder such as a hand drill, wind each propeller 600 times, by turning it with your finger, rotating the left hand one in the direction the clock goes, and the right hand one the other way. If you have a winder allow a friend to hold the propellers and support the model horizontally while you go to the nose of the model, unhook the "S" hook from the nose hook and by placing it on the winder hook wind the rubber. Do this enough to store 600 turns in the rubbers, taking into account the geared advantage of the winder, and making sure that you are causing the propellers to turn in their proper directions.

When the propellers are wound, face the wind, hold the model over the head with a hand on each propeller, and thrust the model forward, in the same manner as is illustrated in the drawing. The model is designed to fly with the small wing in front. If the model dives or climbs too rapidly make the same adjustments as for the glides. If it turns, slide the wing sideways. If the model is properly adjusted it will climb rapidly to get altitude, then turn a half circle and fly with the wind.

CHECK FAULTS

If the model does not fly satisfactorily after all of the foregoing has been observed, two faults may be holding it down: either it is too heavy or it is underpowered. The only way to correct overweight is to go over the model carefully, eliminating every extra bit of weight. If the model is underpowered, it should be wound more before launching, or more rubber must be used, or the rubber now on the model must be strung tighter and formed into more strands.

The rubbers should be capable of standing 1,000 revolutions. This will insure a long flight. It would not be wise to turn eight strands of rubber up more than 1,000 turns, but if the model is lightly made, it may fly with seven strands, and these may be turned up more than the thicker bunch. Experiment with your model to get the greatest duration and distance. By doing so you will learn that when a model is light it will fly with less rubber than a heavy one. Less rubber may be turned up for more revolutions. Thus lightness works two ways to make long flights.

If you have not had a hand drill for winding the model, you will have found that winding by hand occupied quite some time. Any sport can be improved by reducing the irksome work and using the time saved for more enjoyment.

Therefore tomorrow directions will be given for making a geared winder which will be an improvement over hand methods and even be more efficient than the drill, because it will wind both motors at the same time. It will be made out of an egg beater, so procure one on your way home from the flying field. Get one which has the beater shafts well secured in the frame and preferably has the big driving gear running between the two smaller gears.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

THURSDAY, AUGUST 11.

AGAIN sinister stars rule, according to astrology, which finds the business hours subject to thwarting and disturbing influences.

Women today may be stimulated to energy and activity, but they should be careful lest they expend energy in futile faultfinding.

Persons whose birthdate it is probably will have a happy year. The young will court or marry.

Children born on this day probably will be lucky in love. They are likely to have talent in mechanical lines and may become inventors.

How It's Done

The rule for keeping that schoolgirl complexion, that thousands know

By NORMA SHEARER

A SIMPLE nightly habit, famous beauty experts say, is today responsible for better skin conditions, greater charm and beauty, than any costly treatments known.

Simple cleanliness—soap and water—they aver, is the first rule in getting that schoolgirl complexion.

Wash the face gently with Palmolive. Massage its balmy olive and palm oil lather into the skin. Rinse with warm water; then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be naturally dry, apply a little good cold cream. That is all—it's nature's rule for keeping that schoolgirl complexion.

Thus, largely on expert advice, millions use Palmolive Soap; touch their faces with no other. It is made of cosmetic oils. It is made for one purpose only—to protect and beautify the skin.

Use this way regularly, and particularly before bed. Use powder, rouge, make-up all you wish. But never leave them on the skin over night. Note, then, how much better your skin in even one week.

GET REAL PALMOLIVE

Get Palmolive today. Costs but 10c a cake. Use no other on your face. But be sure you get GENUINE Palmolive. Crude imitations, represented to be of olive and palm oils, are not the same as Palmolive. Remember that and TAKE CARE. The Palmolive-Peet Co., Chicago, U. S. A. —Advertisement.

FASHION QUEENS VISIT LINDY'S AIR FIELD

By ALFHILD LARSON,
Pittsburgh's Fashion Queen.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 10—The electrologists bought out the Garden Theater last night and it was filled to overflowing with jolly good fellows who gave us such a reception as we have never had before. I received the greatest storm of applause, as usual, but they were nice to all the other girls, too.

Yesterday afternoon we went motoring and ended up at the Lambert Flying Field. They showed us Lindy's hangar and told us all about him. Nearly all of us wanted to fly, but it was only convenient for two to be taken up, so we drew straws. Miss Springfield and Miss Clinton were the lucky ones and spent 10 minutes in the air.

Mrs. W. B. Douglas, our hostess, took us to the charming country home of her sister on the edge of a little French village miles out and I have never seen such beautiful gardens or such a quaint house in my life.

Today we are going to lunch at the Missouri Athletic Association and take in a show in the afternoon. St. Louis is leaving nothing undone to make us happy—luncheons, dinners, motor rides, matinees, oh, this is the life. It is pretty hard to realize that I am only a working girl on a vacation. I feel like a debutante who has just had her coming out party.

PARADE TO OPEN CONTEST

An automobile parade downtown at noon Saturday will be the first event on the program for the selection of "Miss Pittsburgh 1927" at the Willows pool, Oakmont. Ninety-two contenders, finalists selected by 23 motion picture theaters of Greater Pittsburgh, will be the center of attraction as a caravan of $75,000 worth of latest model Buick cars carries the beauties from the Buick Motor Company salesrooms, Baum boulevard and Aiken avenue, through the downtown district and then proceeds to the scene of the tournament at Oakmont.

The judging, tickets for which event are now on sale, will start at 1:30 o'clock. Two sets of judges will be assigned to the selecting of Greater Pittsburgh's new beauty queen, her alternate, and 23 winners of nine-day vacation trips to Atlantic City and Washington. Tickets are available at the A. G. Spalding & Bros. store, 608 Wood street, and at the Oakmont resort.

The largest crowd ever to witness this local annual event is expected and arrangements have been made for a seating capacity of 6,000 spectators. A buffet lunch will await the contesting beauties upon their arrival at the pool, while at night they will be guests at a special program in the Willows for the presentation of the loving cup to "Miss Pittsburgh."

George Sharp, manager of the George Sharp Production Stock Company at the Pitt Theater, will be host tomorrow night to the eight finalists from the Arcade and Colonial theaters, South Side. They will witness his company in a production of the comedy, "If I Was Rich."

MEET SALLY JEROME HERE NEXT MONDAY

BUSINESS CAN WAIT

"SALLY'S SHOULDERS" BEGINS MONDAY! The drawing card here is a synopsis of Sally's story. What would these girls do in her place? That's what they are wondering.

A vitaphone might have picked up their remarks just before the camera clicked: "But why call it 'Sally's Shoulders?' " . . . "Beatrice Burton knows her readers" . . . "I don't think anyone knows how much their shoulders can bear till they have to bear it," . . . "I honestly think a girl can know when the right man comes along," . . . "Oh, I don't," . . . "I read 'The Flapper Wife' and 'The Petter' on the way home from work—it gets your mind off business." . . . "About a working girl—that's me—I'll read it," . . "Beatrice Burton holds your interest right to the end" . . . "I missed 'Honey Lou' but I won't miss 'Sally' ".

There is a girl in this group who is another "Sally" . . . bearing the burden of her family, saving on clothes, but keeping her hair marcelled and her nose powdered. Every girl whether she "punches in" every morning or not will feel loyal to Sally and take some tips from the story to solve her own problems.

WHEN THEY HEARD OF "SALLY'S SHOULDERS"

BRITISH FOLLOW U.S. SYSTEM

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Fisher.—America has seen her drug stores pass through a period of change. She has watched the old-style drug store evolve into an emporium devoted to the sale of notions. Now the English drug store is apparently about to undergo a change. An expert at the recent Chemists' Exhibition in London said that the English apothecary of the future must live on his side lines. According to this expert there is more profit to be made from the sale of a toothbrush than in making up a prescription.

More people now consult doctors and go from the doctors to the chemist's shop for medicines than ever before. What, then, it asks, is the reason for the sudden desire on the part of the chemists to advance the sale of specialties?

The American pharmacist has had more to contend with than has the European. Crusaders against the use of drugs in treating human ailments, as well as an increase in the number of kinds of practitioners who practice without the aid of drugs, have been more evident here than on the Continent. Choosing the lines of least resistance, the American druggist has found it profitable to vary his stock.

Alimony Court Orders George Voigt to Pay $80 Instead of $50

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—George J. Voigt, one of the leading contenders in the coming national amateur golf championship tournament at Minneapolis, has been ordered by the District Supreme Court to pay his wife $80 a month alimony, instead of the $50 formerly fixed.

Voigt recently was cleared of charges of professionalism, after a storm in local golf circles. He was ranked among the second 10.

"BETTY" By FAITH BALDWIN

The Fascinating Love Story of a Girl of the Present Day

Betty Is Rescued by Harry, But Lorrimer Finds a Way Back to Her

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Pretty Betty Warren, the mainstay of her mother and sisters, Helen, 16, and Gladys, an artistic dreamer, is engaged to Bob Stevenson, but their marriage is postponed when an older sister, Virginia, comes home with her child to live while her husband, a gassed war veteran, is away for his health. Betty, a typist, meets Anson Lorrimer, whose attentions anger Bob. The engagement is broken. Harry Martin, fellow-employe of Betty, becomes engaged to Gladys. Lorrimer lures Betty to his apartment with evil intent. She is struggling with him when Harry arrives.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

HARRY MARTIN had come on a sudden and not to be denied impulse. Before Lorrimer could utter a word had pushed past him and had walked confidently into the room. He saw Betty at once, over near the divan, standing very straight and looking at him with eyes he had not seen before, eyes in which such relief and gratitude were written that he longed above all things to turn and choke Lorrimer with his bare hands—to strangle him—once and for all—no, twice, once for himself and once for Bob Stevenson!

"Hello, Betty . . . where's the party?" he said and smiled at her reassuringly.

Lorrimer came down the room, his poise recovered, smiling easily.

"There isn't any party . . . the people didn't show up . . . mixed in their dates. But I think they'll be along, some of them the night owls, presently . . . people in this man's town have no idea of time. I was just trying to persuade Betty to stay on for a bit, but she wouldn't.

In 10 minutes they were out of the door, followed by Lorrimer's polite protests.

"Don't talk—don't tell me anything—just lie there quietly."

A moment later he asked her:

She did not go to the office that next morning. She was authentically ill, worn out by terror and emotion. So she pleaded a headache, which was perfectly true, and was unsuspectingly coddled by her mother. When Harry came in the evening for dinner she dressed and crawled downstairs. She did not wish him to find her so lacking in courage.

One day Lorrimer came again to the office. He compelled Betty to ackowledge his "good morning." She loathed him. But he came back protesting.

"Betty, I was insane that night. I'd been drinking—drinking all day. I could kill myself with humiliation. Betty could you find it in your good little heart to forgive me? I can't eat . . . I can't sleep . . . for contrition."

A taxi accident sent Betty to the hospital for a few days. The family rallied to her. Bob came. They knew they loved. But they agreed they could be just good friends with engagement, marriage and eternal happiness the

Dawes' Applesauce Has Spice In It, Says Will Rogers

BEVERLY HILLS, CAL., Aug. 10.—The papers can't get over Dawes getting the press notices over such speakers as Baldwin, England's Premier, who is really their President, the Prince of Wales and Secretary Kellogg. Up to the time of Dawes the Vice President's speech was always the following:

"Gentlemen, the President wishes me to convey to you his sincere regret at not being able to be with you here and to tell you that his heart and soul is in this noble cause of yours."

The loaded trucks couldn't wait till the speech was over before they were crossing the new bridge with their best wishes. That will cement more good relations than all the applesauce spilled on the speakers' stand.

Yours,

WILL.

Courtney Hop Postponed

OCEAN FLIGHT DELAYED BY WEATHER

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Owing to adverse wind reports, Capt. Frank T. Courtney, decided at 9 a. m., that he would not make an attempt this morning to fly to Valentia, Ireland, on the first lap of his transatlantic flight. He had been studying weather conditions since 3 a. m., at which time his flying boat the "Whale" was made ready for the hop-off, as he expected to get away about 6:30 a. m.

Courtney announced that the start would be postponed for 48 hours owing to the adverse weather.

Courtney and the two men who are to accompany him, R. F. Little, mechanic, and F. W. Downer, aviator, had donned their flying togs, but as unfavorable reports continued to arrive, the trio decided it would be unwise to start. They went to their homes and to bed.

KING TO SPEAK BEFORE WOMEN VOTERS' LEAGUE

William L. King, executive secretary of the Citizens' League, will speak to members of the League of Women Voters late this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Homer N. Young, 1146 Termon avenue. Future activities of the league are expected to be announced following a meeting of the executive board later in the day.

LUCK FELL WITH HIM

FORTUNATE

EEL SNIBBING IS DELICATE WORK

HAMBURG, Germany.—How does the snibber snib? Why does he snib, and what does he snib?

The snibber snibs eels, and he snibs them because that is the best way of doing it. This is how the eel-snibber goes to work.

He gets a rod some four feet long: the end of a two-jointed fishing-rod suits his purpose well. To the upper end of this he attaches, with the aid of a right-angled piece of tin tubing, another piece of stiff rod about 18 inches long. This piece has a large ring attached to its free end, and a line, after having been passed through rings on the longer rod, is carried round the bend and through the ring at the tip of the shorter portion.

There is no reel at the butt end of this curious instrument; the line is simply held in the hand at that point.

To the business end of the line a short piece of fine but strong gut is now joined, and to the end of that a medium-sized hook and—a large and lively worm of the wriggly sort. For unless the worm has a way with him the snibber may snib in vain.

The eel-snibber plies his calling mostly along rivers where camp-sheeting is employed to hold up the banks, as is often the case in populated places or wherever it is necessary to confine the stream within certain limits. In the crannies which the water works out beneath these artificial walls the eel loves to lurk.

Down goes the snibber on hands and knees, and leaning over the bank, he manipulates, ever so delicately, the point of his rod so that it slips gently in underneath the boards. The force of the stream carries hook and bait into the farthest recesses where the eels lie hidden.

Feeling his way with the point of his rod, the snibber probes every crevice until presently he gets a "bite." A swift strike by a pull on the line and, with luck, the victim is hooked and forthwith hauled out into the stream and so on to the bank.

Face Peeler Reveals Youthful Beauty

To free your skin of freckles, tan, sunburn and other summer ailments it is always best to completely peel off the entire surface. This is quickly accomplished by the use of ordinary mercolized wax, which can be had at any drug store or beauty counter. Use at night as you would cold cream, washing it off in the morning. Immediately the offending skin begins to peel off in fine powder-like particles. Soon the entire outer layer is absorbed, without harm or inconvenience. The underneath skin presents a spotless clearness, obtainable in no other way. Mercolized wax brings out the hidden beauty.—Advertisement.

HUNT WRECKAGE OF HESPERUS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10. — The United States Coast and Geodetic Survey expects to determine definitely whether the "Wreck of the Hesperus," made famous by Longfellow's poem, was a myth.

It will make a new survey next summer of Gloucester harbor, the scene of the supposed wreck, it was announced today. A wiredrag of the waters surrounding Norman's Woe, a dangerous reef near the harbor's entrance, failed to reveal the Hesperus in a survey in 1916.

The survey is necessary because of increased shipping.

John Hanna, 80, says he is going to room in a Y. M. C. A., or some place where he is sure of getting his eight hours sleep at night. He has been lodging with Nick Bonaris, 52, at 1238 Drovers way. At 4 o'clock this morning police raided the house, found a still and some moonshine, and Hanna was aroused from his slumbers and, with Bonaris, was taken to the Allegheny police station. In police court he was discharged, but Bonaris was held on a charge of violating the Snyder act.

FIGHTS RESALE AT SESQUI

International News Service Wire.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—Legality of the resale of the $500,000 Sesqui Auditorium at auction to Harry Hart, of Barnesville, for $10,000 after having been bought previously for $4,800 by Philip E. Wright, of Philadelphia, will be argued in the United States District Court here today.

Receivers of the exposition ordered the building resold because Wright's bid had been low, it is understood.

Final sale at auction of all remaining Sesqui property is scheduled today. Heading the list is the Sesqui organ, the third largest in the world.

SOME of the official hair-splitters among the fans are at work as a result of the fine imposed on Kiki Cuyler. These official hair-splitters say that while a $50 fine would not have been amiss if plastered on because Cuyler vainly dashed to third in the first Giant game when he should have stopped at second and there was no sound reason why he should have been fined $50 for his failure to slide to second in another instance.

To quiet all this, it behooves Manager Donie Bush to remit at once the $50 fine for the play at second and with the same motion inflict the $50 fine for the vain dash to third. In this fashion, apparently, all shades of opinion will be satisfied.

GIANT protestations over the fine imposed by Manager Bush are to be taken with the well-known grain of salt. It is not unusual that one team disagrees with the discipline enforced by a rival manager. In fact, it is pretty difficult to find any general accord, even on the same ball club, when the iron hand of the manager is brought to an abrupt halt on the back of an offending player.

The fine imposed on Cuyler was not the result of just one misplay. Rather, there was an accumulation of affairs which caused Manager Bush to select one instance as the vehicle to send his fine on its way. He did this in preference to reciting the long history of differences with Cuyler. Who will say he was imprudent? Only those who wanted no fine at all.

THOSE who know Barney Dreyfuss and Donie Bush are ready to wager two cookies that Cuyler will not in the end be $50 loser on the deal. In times past other players have been fined by the Pirate management and in all but very rare cases the fines were given back to the players at the end of the season.

MANAGER BUSH has shown the iron hand after restraining himself in this connection for a long while. Cuyler's fine may be the first of a series. Some of the boys point out that Cuyler is not the only offender on the club. This is indubitably true. However, Bush began with Cuyler and may have in mind now a few other targets at which to hurl other penalties.

Certainly, Bush must take drastic steps to shake the Pirates from the lethargy which has gripped them ever since the last eastern trip. The boys have been playing as though they didn't care whether they won a pennant. This does not go for all of them. Boys like the Waners, Traynor and Gooch have been in the games up to their ears, but in other spots there has been a noticeable letdown.

Fans who fear Bush shows discrimination may banish that thought at once. He knows no favorites.

SOMETIMES Bush does make the mistake of patting the wrong boys on the back and neglecting to pat on the back the boys who deserve more than an even share of this kind of praise, but he does this because he feels the boys who are producing do not need encouragement, while those who are not at their best may be spurred by a cheerful word from the boss. However, Donie should be careful in this, because the deserving fellow thus passed up is not always shrewd enough to see through Donie's subtle game.

PIRATES, a spy reports, are going to have great difficulty in bagging the pennant because every club, except possibly the Giants, is pulling for the Cubs. The spy further says that a part of this sentiment against the Pirates comes because Earl Smith so unceremoniously socked Dave Bancroft, Boston manager.

In spite of the stories one hears from time to time that the neurotic Bancroft is not popular in the league, there is an undercurrent of gossip in the league which says that the boys thought Smitty should not have struck the nervous and delicate Bancroft.

This is a good thing for the Pirates to know so they can be prepared to call no foe in the league "Brother."

IN TIMES past hatred against the Giants always reacted in the New Yorkers' favor. Manager McGraw never found it extremely difficult in pennant years to keep his men fresh, panting, excited. The enemy clubs saw to it that the Giants were always on their toes. Advent of the Giants into a city in those pennant years always was the signal for even the lowly clubs to take on fresh life in an effort to dethrone the haughty New Yorkers. So it may be a good thing, after all, if the Pirates are cordially hated. Maybe it will help them lose that indifferent air they show so often when pitted against foemen they consider unworthy of their best steel.

IN THE logical predictions that Cuyler may be serving his last year here there is nothing that should alarm or worry the Pirate outfielder. There are just seven other clubs in the National League which would try to get him, and an even eight in the American League which would be eager to land him.

Too, Cuyler may even welcome the prospect of a change. Realizing this his immediate superior, Bush, saw fit to fine him, and feeling that his employer, Mr. Dreyfuss, is not entirely in sympathy with him, Cuyler may not be worrying about a transfer at all. Of course, the specter of the ill-paid Phils, the lean and hungry Dodgers, the lowly Braves may haunt him, but other good players have survived even such environment as offered by the dregs of the league.

And, if he goes, he may get some little satisfaction out of the knowledge there will be many a day in Pittsburgh when his genuine ability at hitting, running, and throwing will be missed. Also, fans may sigh for a star who, in spite of bad baserunning at times, and a kind of temperament, was a fellow who retired about 11 p. m. every evening, slept the sleep of the just, and in his waking hours refrained from those pleasures of the flesh generally frowned upon but indulged in by the weighty moralists, smoking, chewing, drinking.

CUBS TO BENCH BECK FOR YOTER

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Elmer Yoter, the third baseman obtained yesterday by the Chicago Cubs from the Indianapolis American Association team, may get a chance to play with the National League leaders before the end of the week.

Yoter, for whom the Cubs gave Fred Haney and considerable cash, is the second third baseman to come to the Chicago team from the Association this season, Eddie Pick having been acquired from Kansas City.

A switch of the Cubs' infield which has been indicated would put Yoter on third and Sparky Adams on second, leaving Elwood English, another Association graduate, at shortstop, but benching Clyde Beck, second baseman.

COURT DECLINES MOTION TO SHUT DOWN DOG RACES

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Efforts of the State's Attorney's office to close dog racing tracks in the Chicago district where it is charged wide open gambling is going on, have met with further court delay.

Judge P. L. Sullivan yesterday refused to hear a motion to dissolve an injunction under which the tracks now operate. A renewed court move to stop the races will be made next week, the State's Attorney said.

Harvard's Grid Eleven Will Be Directed By 28 Coaches

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Henry W. Clark, assistant graduate treasurer at Harvard, said today that Harvard football work this fall would be directed by 28 coaches, probably the largest staff of any college in the country. All but two of those who will assist Head Coach Arnold Horween are Harvard graduates.

The others are Charles Carney, former Illinois all-America end, and R. Jerome Dunne, captain of the 1921 Michigan eleven. Carney will coach the ends and Dunne will be line coach.

Victor B. Kennard, whose field goal won the game from Yale in 1908, will be kicking coach. Charley Buell, captain of the Harvard 1922 team, will direct quarterback play.

RACING PILOTS WARM MOUNTS

Drivers entered in the week-end sweepstakes at the Pittsburgh-Bridgeville board speedway Saturday afternoon will be at the track tomorrow to put in their final workout before going into the qualifying trials Friday evening at 6:30 o'clock. About 35 pilots will take part in the battle for the 24 positions—12 in the 75-mile race and the same number in the 25-miler. Several are out today tuning up.

Three Indianapolis speedsters arrived in town last night and worked out today. Howdy Wilcox, Jr., Bill Cummins and Lloyd Early are the Hoosier state entries. Fred Harder, Detroit; Roy Groves, Sammy Swank and Bill Lindau are others who stand a splendid chance to share in the money.

A reduction of prices has been announced. The special train will leave Union Station at 1:10 o'clock, daylight saving time, and returning will leave Bridgeville at 6:28 o'clock.

NET FINAL TODAY

The public parks doubles tennis champions of Pittsburgh will be decided at 7 this evening when Rube and L. Harris, Schenley Park stars, meet the Riverview team of Roy Butt and Henry Blum. Rube Harris previously was crowned singles champ. Tonight's match will mark the climax of a month's play in various parks throughout the city.

SOCCER

By Tom Birks

The annual general meeting of the Scottish Clan Soccer League will take place this evening at the Hotel Henry and when Chairman Tom Clark finishes the business on hand, fans in the district will have an opportunity to see whether the clan circuit will go through again this season, or become part and parcel of the newly-formed International League, now in the making.

On Friday evening at Burdine, the Chartiers Valley League swings into action for the coming season. It is hard to state just how Bierman's outfit will lineup this season. Most of the players, like the seniors in the Keystone are scattered around, but out of the 16 clubs that composed this great little junior loop their should be enough left to form one league.

Then on Sunday the newly-formed Sunday league will have another session in the office of the secretary. The latest addition to this league is the German club. Of course the withdrawal of Carl Meisenberg's great outfit from the District loop sort of weakens it, but the District's loss is the Sunday loop's gain. The Germans are one of the best attractions in the district.

The writer has always enthused over the playing of the German boys and they will provide plenty of competition.

It is to be hoped that the International League functions this season. The meeting held in the Carnegie Library at Braddock attended by the writer found plenty of talent for a good soccer loop. Most of the men on hand know plenty of the game and how to run clubs.

Westinghouse, Turtle Creek and National Tube are a good trio to form a league around. Harry Anthel, Yost boulevard, Braddock, is the secretary of the new loop. Get in touch with him.

President Carson of the local governing body has been busy of late naming committees for the operating of the game this season. To get a real live committee is a help to the game and also to the council. Most of the live wires worked hard at the national final last season at Westinghouse High School field and should again be roped into the work.

Managers should not forget that all registration forms will be available August 19 at the office of the president in the evening. Managers not being able to be on hand should send check to cover amount. In seasons past managers would wail that someone had the jump on them and lined up all the talent. This season all strings are equal. So if managers get left they have themselves to blame. Get a check to Secretary Sam Park; the forms are 10 cents each and will be available on the above date.

Quite a number of clubs are already practicing for the coming season. The Scotch picnic usually brings out the boys, and this season 15 fives were on hand, most of the players looking in great condition.

Gallatin won the contest, but from the looks of things, little soccer will be played around the Gallatin mine this fall. However, things change almost overnight, and the Monongahela circuit might again operate.

Tex Reveals Heavy Plans

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—The winner of tomorrow night's Jack Delaney-Paulino Uzcudun fight will be held in readiness by Tex Rickard as a possible substitute for either Jack Dempsey or Gene Tunney, in the event either of the principals of the heavyweight championship bout at Chicago, September 22, is unable to go on.

This was learned today following Rickard's return from Chicago to attend to details of his New York card at the Yankee Stadium.

Some time ago the promoter signed Jack Sharkey to an agreement whereby the Boston fighter obligated himself to substitute for either Dempsey or Tunney in an emergency.

"I don't expect anything to happen to either Tunney or Dempsey that would prevent them from fighting," Rickard said, "but I am taking no chances. Injuries have played havoc with some fighters at the time of important battles. I have Sharkey signed as a possible substitute and either Delaney or Paulino would make a second emergency man. The winner of tomorrow night's bout here is assured of a fight with Sharkey if everything goes well in Chicago."

TRAINING SITE SOUGHT.

Leo P. Flynn, Dempsey's manager, was in conference with Rickard regarding a training site for the former champion. Flynn indicated that the Lincoln Fields race course might be chosen eventually, but he said he still is considering numerous bids from clubs and resorts near Chicago.

Paulino has been given the approval of medical examiners representing the New York State Athletic Commission. The Spaniard has a boil on his right forearm, but insists he is not bothered by the growth, or from an injured left thumb. Paulino will weigh in around 192 pounds tomorrow. Delaney came to New York today from his camp weighing 177.

TUNNEY

"If anybody says I am kicking about the distance of the fight, they are crazy," he said. "All I can say is that I am satisfied with all arrangements. I will be ready when the time comes."

Tunney already has gone into more or less active training at Speculator, N. Y., according to his own story. The noted recluse apparently is taking everything, including himself, very seriously and is running himself flat-footed over the adjacent terrain in his praiseworthy effort to present himself to the best advantage at the appointed moment, or words to that general effect.

GENE IGNORES DEMPSEY.

For the time being, he is ignoring Dempsey. He feels that he can afford to do this in view of the concentrated attention he plans to pay John on the night of September 22.

The story was that he felt so worried about John that he had decided to insist upon 15 rounds of the official distance for the battle of the Twentieth Century Limited, but it seems that the interest of the great educator was centered elsewhere. Possibly on his finger nails. Anyhow, he was astonished, not to say nunplussed, when it was suggested that he might have some objection to the arrangements that have been carried through by Mr. Rickard.

"The contract is signed, the bout is on and I am ready to fight at any time, at any place and under any conditions that conform to the law," Tunney said.

CRAFTON-INGRAM STARS MEET GRAYS TOMORROW

Stars of the Crafton-Ingram Church League will line up against the Homestead Grays tomorrow at the league's annual booster night. A crowd of several thousand fans is expected to be in attendance as the last time the Grays appeared in Crafton they were defeated and Capt. Posey has announced his determination to get revenge. The game will be staged on the Crafton Athletic Grounds at 6:30 p. m.

TENDLER STOPS GORDON

SPORTS COMMENT

By James J. Long

WHAT may look like a weak spot in the slugging record of Paul Waner for the present season is in reality the strongest evidence of his driving power with the bludgeon. That is the fact of his having made only six home runs and being far behind the leaders in four-base smacks, though ranking ahead of all rivals in both big leagues in the matter of triples and doubles.

As a matter of fact, this apparent inability on the part of Waner to measure up to the standards of the leading home-run sluggers in the big tent really demonstrates the superiority of the Pittsburgher's punch. For whereas Paul is piling up his doubles and triples on real hits inside the grounds, drives of terrific force, many of the home-run leaders are getting joke four-basers over short fences or into close stands on ordinary flies that would be easy outs on playing fields of the proper size.

EASY flies may be home runs in some of the National League parks, where a rival hitter may place a round-tripper to his credit on a hoist of that sort, Waner will get only a triple or a double because he hits the ball on a line. His smashes may be much harder than those of other players who make home runs in the same game, but they are too low to carry over the short fences.

In other words, the small fields put a penalty on superior hitting. Ordinary flies will yield home runs because they are high enough to clear the barriers, but line drives such as Waner makes will crash against the fences and thus be held to doubles or triples. A home run may be only a joke in the restricted playing space of some of the modern parks, but a triple or double is always a real hit because it has got to be made inside the park and without the aid of a close wall or stand.

SO that is one instance in which present-day records are deceiving. Instead of detracting from Waner's glory, the fact that he has made comparatively only a few home runs is in reality an additional boost for him, for in these days three-baggers and two-baggers frequently represent harder drives and better hits than those which yield home runs.

PUNCH 'EM PAUL, by the way, is practically certain to break his own records for both triples and doubles this year, with 17 and 33, respectively, to his credit, and 51 more games to be played. He is also likely to pass his home-run total of eight.

Last year, for instance, he led the National League in triples with 22, and with the present season only two-thirds gone he has made 17 and is therefore only five below his total of 1926. Against his 35 doubles of last season he has already made 33, needing only three more to surpass that showing.

WHETHER Waner will succeed in breaking any of the all-time major league records is another question. He has quite a distance to go if he is to accomplish anything of that sort.

The big league record for triples in a season is 36, set by Chief Wilson while he was wearing a Pittsburgh uniform in 1912. The American League record is 26, established by Joe Jackson while with Cleveland in 1912, and equaled by Sam Crawford of Detroit in 1914.

The major league high-mark for doubles is 59, set by Tris Speaker while with Cleveland in 1923. The National League record is 56, still standing to the credit of the late Ed Delehanty, who carved out that number for the Phillies in 1899.

SAILING out of the home port tonight, the Buccaneers face one of the longest and toughest trips of the year. After playing their final St. Louis series of 1927 they will cruise into Eastern waters for the last time this season, and the tour is of a nature that may make or break their pennant chance.

Nineteen games in all are scheduled for the journey, including a double-header in Philadelphia and another dual bill in Boston. Four contests are to be played in St. Louis, four in New York, two in Brooklyn, five in Boston and four in Philadelphia in the order named.

GOING through that program without a loss of ground will be difficult contract, and in order to come back home in a good position to make a final pennant drive the Corsairs will have to improve upon their previous showing in some of the cities to be visited. They have won five out of seven in New York and five out of nine in Brooklyn, but have lost four out of seven in St. Louis, four out of seven in Philadelphia, and have only broken even in six games at Boston.

ONCE again the judgment of Donie Bush is vindicated in passing from the majors of a pitcher whom he adjudged as being no longer good enough for fast company.

When the Pittsburgh club let Southpaw Don Songer go to the Giants via the waiver route on May 8, it was criticized for discarding him at a time when the Bucs themselves were in sore need of slab material.

Some of the fans appeared not to realize that it was quality rather than quantity that the Corsairs required in the line of mound timber, and that even a dozen more pitchers like Songer would be of no help to the club if they could not win.

THAT the Pittsburgh club had weakened itself and strengthened a dangerous rival was the cry in some quarters when Songer was turned over to the Giants, but that Bush knew exactly what he was doing is attested by a bulletin yesterday which announces that New York has released Songer to the Toronto club of the International League.

Songer won five games and lost eight while with the Giants, working mainly in relief roles.

BUCS OFF TONIGHT TO PLAY CARDS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

BACK in a mood for fighting everybody, the Pirates today were eager to mix with the Giants in the last game of the intersectional series. Tonight the Bushwhackers will hurry toward St. Louis where a set of four battles will be run off, these to be followed by the last invasion of the East on the part of the Pirates and other Western teams.

The Pittsburgh players are due to leave the city at 6 o'clock over the Pennsylvania railroad. They will rush from their clubhouse to taxicabs this evening to be transported to the station. In the event that the game should go far into extra innings, a later train would be used.

The closing run of fights with the Eastern teams has not found the Pirates with any big laurels. In the 13 games played the Buccos have won seven, a showing that is not pleasing in view of the flag situation.

ROBINS EASY FOR CUBS.

The triumph of the Dodgers in the second game of a bargain bill with the Cubs in Chicago had a sweetening flavor for the Pirates, who made a half-stride toward the top. The Bears were only three games in front as a result of the fifty-fifty party with the Robins. The Bruins, nevertheless, have won 13 out of their 15 fights with the Dodgers this season, a development which is largely responsible for their lofty position.

Approximately 10,000 Pirate supporters were pleased with the play of their favorites yesterday as they conquered the Giants, 7 to 6. To accomplish this happy result the Buccos twice had to come from behind. The bats of Wright, Barnhart and Paul Waner decided the issue. Brother Paul's double with two out in the ninth scoring Lloyd Waner with the winning tally.

Tunney Denies Asking Fight Law Be Changed In Illinois

NUMBER OF ROUNDS NO WORRY TO CHAMP

By DAVIS J. WALSH,
International News Service Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—"I beat Jack Dempsey in 10 rounds a year ago; I ought to be able to do the same thing now."

That was Gene Tunney's reply today to stories that he would ask that the Illinois law be waived in order to set his match with Jack Dempsey at the championship distance. In a long distance telephone conversation with the writer, the champion indicated that he felt he was perfectly able to take care of himself either in a sprint or a marathon.

GABBY HARTNETT INJURED

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Gabby Hartnett, the Chicago Cubs' best catcher, was spiked on the foot by Felix as the latter attempted to score in the second inning of the second game between Chicago and Brooklyn yesterday. Felix's spikes ripped a gash in Hartnett's big toe and the catcher probably will be out of the game for a couple of days. Hartnett is regarded as one of the most important cogs in the Cub machine.

PITLER, EX-BUC, REINSTATED

OIL CITY, Pa., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Jake Pitler, former Pittsburgh Pirate infielder, who was banned from organized baseball for jumping to Oil City in 1920 to play in the famous "Two-Team League," has been reinstated in organized ball by J. H. Farrell, secretary of the National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs.

Pitler is the property of Toledo in the American Association and from correspondence received by the local player from club officials, it is expected he will be ordered to join the team within the next week.

PUBLIC OFFICIALS GOLF

CITY VS. COUNTY ON LINKS

County officials defeated city officials in their annual golf match over the St. Clair Country Club links yesterday, evening up their defeat last year. Councilmen Charles Anderson, Robert J. Alderdice and Robert Garland turned in victories for the city aggregation, but their teammates were unequal to the task of keeping up the good work. Top right in the layout of pictures is Edward G. Lang, director of the City Department of Public Works, wielding an iron club. Inset in the group picture are Councilmen Charles Anderson (left) and Robert J. Alderdice. In the group, left to right, are: Back row—Joseph Hobson, W. C. Lyle, Councilman Robert Garland, Hermann F. Ruoff, president of the St. Clair Country Club; John A. Fugazzi, Fred W. Lyon, Edward F. Moriarity, Superintendent of County Roads Edward M. Kenna and Director Lang. Front row—J. B. Richards, J. J. Croak, L. G. Molyneaux, Chief Bureau Engineer Tom M. Reed, Assistant City Solicitor H. Stewart Dunn, William Schwerin and W. K. Allen. At the bottom is Councilman Garland taking a healthy wallop at the little white pellet.

THE NEXT CHAMPION?

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

WHO will be the next heavyweight champion of the world?

Who can say?

When Jess Willard was titleholder, he was considered well-nigh invincible because of his gigantic proportions. There did not appear to be a dangerous opponent in sight. Yet, almost overnight, Jack Dempsey rose to prominence and when he met Jess he floored the big fellow seven times in the first round and stripped him of his crown.

Dempsey ruled for seven years, and then along came Tunney, and Gene, conceded little chance of winning, shocked the world by making a punching bag of the Dempsey who had come to be regarded as a "man-killer."

Now Dempsey, who appeared to be through the night he lost to Tunney, has come back a fair distance and, with a victory over Jack Sharkey under his belt, will meet Tunney again, in Chicago, next month. Tunney is favored to repeat his victory, because Dempsey appeared to be made to order for his style in their bout in the Sesqui arena the night the title changed hands.

* * *

SUPPOSE Tunney does win again, to whom will he eventually lose the crown? The man who can successfully answer that question can make himself a lot of money.

One man's guess is as good as another's.

The opinion of veterans in the sport are generally sought out on such occasions, however.

A man who should know something about heavyweight matters since he managed two of the early champions in the division is William A. Brady, the theatrical producer and father of Alice Brady, the actress.

Billy Brady handled Jim Corbett and Jim Jeffries in their time.

He believes Paulino, the Spanish woodchopper, who boxes Jack Delaney in New York tomorrow night, will be the next champion. There is a general inclination to laugh off Paulino, but Brady does not giggle up his sleeve over him. The night of the Dempsey-Sharkey fight, Paulino was one of the boxers introduced from the ring before the main bout, and to James (Red) Mason, local manager of boxers, Brady addressed the remark:

"There is the next heavyweight champion."

Just a short time before that Paulino had disposed of what was left of Harry Wills, the recent leading contender, who also had stubbed his toe on Sharkey.

Is Brady a fistic prophet? We shall see. We shall know more about Paulino after his bout with Delaney.

Von Elm Practices For National at Minikahda

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Stealing a march on the challengers who will seek to divest him of his title at the National amateur golf tournament here August 22, George Von Elm of Los Angeles, defending champion, planned another round over the Minikahda course today to size up carefully the lay of the land.

Accompanied by Allan Moser, his 18-year-old Hollywood protege, Von Elm was out to improve upon the superb 73 a single stroke over par, in which he turned the links in his first practice session Tuesday.

Von Elm sounded a word of warning for the seekers after his crown. He was of the opinion that the Minikahda course will prove a severe test for the most skilled golfers, with the least deviation from long, truee tee shots causing trouble.

Von Elm will get in another rehearsal Thursday and then with his protege will move on to Detroit for a tournament, returning to Minneapolis before the start of the National amateur Monday.

TOTTEN LEADS STANTON GOLF

Charles A. Totten, 19-year-old Stanton Heights flash, was setting the pace in the first 19 holes of medal play of the annual invitation tournament of the Stanton Heights Golf Club today. He tallied a 72.

Joseph Stanger, of Highland, appeared as though he would remain among the top leaders with his 73, while the same can be said for John (Jock) Graham, of South Hills, who had a 74.

Samuel M. Parks, Jr., of Highland, had a 76, while Raymond Totten, younger brother of Charles, took 79. Sidney Salomon, Westmoreland junior star, needed 81.

Fred Brand, Jr., West Penn amateur and junior champion, cracked for an 87 in the first round, and he will have to shoot phenomenal golf to qualify.

Referee to Broadcast Delaney-Paulino Go Tomorrow

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(UP.)—The Delaney-Paulino bout will be broadcast direct from the ringside at Yankee Stadium tomorrow night by station WARC, the Atlantic Broadcasting Company announced today.

The station will go on the air at 9 o'clock, Eastern daylight time, and it is expected that one or more of the bouts preliminary to the main event will be broadcast.

Lou Magnolia, the referee, assisted by James Lundy, will give the blow-by-blow description.

DISTRICT CADDIE PLAY PLANNED

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER.

A championship tournament for caddies, to be run on the order of a major affair, is in prospect for this district. When the Caddie Welfare Committee of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association meets in executive session at the Highland Country Club Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, in conjunction with the regular tournament of the Caddie-Masters' Association, it will approve or disapprove the idea—although it is reliably reported the thing will go through.

Each club affiliated with the W. P. G. A. and the Schenley Park muny links will hold an 18-hole qualifying round, it has been suggested, in order to make eligible four caddies for the titular round. As soon as this has been completed, a site and date will be selected for a 36-hole one-day championship.

Two prizes will be awarded, one for the team championship and the other for the individual low score.

The Caddie Welfare Committee will take to the links at Highland after it has expressed its sentiment at the meeting.

KIWANIANS TO PLAY.

The first inter-club golf tournament and outing of the Middle West Division of the Kiwanis Club will be played on Tuesday of next week at the Ambridge Country Club, it was announced by M. C. Sandulak, chairman of the golf committee of the local organization.

Golf will take up most of the day—but other sports also will be on the program.

The prizes for the links competition will be for low club scores, low gross score, low net score, most par holes, most birdies, most eagles, driving contest and putting contest. Inasmuch as play is scheduled for all day, there will be prizes for morning as well as afternoon competition.

MANNING PRO VICTOR.

Charley Manning, pro at the Shannopin Country Club, captured the annual open tournament of the U. S. Rubber Company, held at the South Hills Country Club yesterday, with a total of 149 for the 36 holes. He scored a 75 and 74. Al Alcroft of Youngstown and Fred Baroni of Chartiers Heights tied for second at 151. Manning's card:

STOCKS-BONDS-GRAIN-PROVISIONS-LIVESTOCK

Screw & Bolt Spurts To New High Price

Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt got away to a fast start on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today, running up quickly from 46 to 48⅛. This represents a new high record for the stock and exceeds the previous top by 1⅛ points. Resumption of buying today followed a period of quiet in which the issue was called upon to absorb profit taking sales attracted by its rise last week from around 43 to 47. Offerings of this character appeared to have been pretty well cleared up this morning. Revival of buying interest is due to the well-defined feeling in Fourth avenue that the company will shortly place the stock on a $3 annual dividend basis as against the present payments at the rate of $2 a year.

Strength was also evident in Lone Star Gas and there was a moderate turnover in that issue during the early dealings. The street was uninformed as to rumored negotiations which are expected to have an important bearing on Lone Star, but the feeling prevails that the management will take good care of the shareholders in any transfer of properties or equities. No news came out on Arkansas and opening prices on the stock were unchanged, followed by a narrow decline when offerings disclosed only a mild interest on the buying side.

No important changes took place in the general price list in the late market. Around mid-day Fireproofing preferred came out at 26⅞ to 27, the latter price representing an advance of a full point over last week's low. Pittsburgh Plate Glass was firm around previous quotations and Standard Sanitary was steady around 94⅛.

News and Views

California Pete Cuts Dividend.

California Petroleum Corporation declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share, which compares with previous disbursements of 50 cents a share.

The company reports for the June quarter net loss of $91,512, compared with net profit in the March quarter of $1,-[illegible].

Makes Poor Showing.

California Petroleum Corporation's net loss of $91,512 after depreciation, depletion, federal taxes, etc., for the June quarter, compares with net income of $2,331,166, equal to $1.13 a share on 1,961,[illegible] capital shares outstanding in the June, 1926 quarter. For six months the company showed net income of $941,114 or 47 cents a share on [illegible] shares issued, against $3,[illegible] or $1.[illegible] a share on [illegible] shares issued in the first half of 1926.

Car Loadings Increase.

Revenue freight car loadings during the week ended July 30 totaled 1,041,[illegible] cars, an increase of 31,197 cars over the preceding week but a decrease of 36,374 cars from the same week last year. All classes of commodities last week showed increases over the preceding week except coke.

The Political Factor.

Big operators believe the presidential election can be ignored for the moment as a stock market factor. Too much stress has been laid on the Coolidge announcement. The people have tasted the fruits of conservative business management of the country and the next President will be of the Coolidge type, whatever his party, is the Wall Street view.

Mail Order Prices Down.

Sears, Roebuck & Co.'s new fall and winter catalogue shows decline of 3 per cent to 4 per cent, compared with a year ago, according to C. M. Kittle, president. "The decline," Mr. Kittle said, "is distributed over the entire list of goods, with no particular commodities showing any extreme declines or increases."

Steel Mergers Pending.

Steel mergers of importance are believed impending as a matter of necessity, resulting from market conditions, according to advices from Youngstown. Rolled steel prices average $4 per ton below last year and are far from being on a profitable basis. It is only by instituting strict economies that producers have been able to show profits at all, and possibilities in that direction appear nearly exhausted. There are at present no signs of higher prices and consolidations appear to offer the only avenue of relief. It is believed here that in any sizable merger which might be brought about Youngstown Sheet and Tube would appear as an important unit.

Scrap Raised Again.

The price of heavy melting steel scrap has advanced further to $16.60, that price having been paid to the Pennsylvania Railroad on its recent list. There appears no doubt that the price will reach $17 on this movement. Steel scrap is a barometer of the finished steel trade and the strength in scrap is having a cheering effect on the steel makers.

Am. G. & E. Power Output.

American Gas and Electric Company subsidiaries had output of 38,935,[illegible] kilowatt hours in week ended August 5, an increase of 9 per cent over the corresponding period last year.

Western Maryland.

Western Maryland was the strongest of the so-called merger rails in the early market. Optimists on Western Maryland are pointing to steady expansion of company's earnings in past few years as factor which has been responsible for much of buying which has come into that stock in past few months. Road was one of the few that showed an increase in its June gross and net results. Baltimore and Ohio is a large holder of Western Maryland. Professionals have been selling some of the medium priced non-dividend paying rails on the theory that they had attracted an extensive following on the July advance. The move in W. M. was largely attributed to covering by these sellers.

California Packing.

Somebody is picking up California Packing quietly. Advices from the coast are that the best kind of accumulation is taking place after months of dullness. Reports from California also indicated that the company had come to an agreement with peach growers; that as a result the real people behind the company believe it is time to buy the stock in anticipation of better business ahead. Sales of canned goods by California Packing this year have assumed record volume proportions, but prices on specific lines have been lower than last year due to 1926 overproduction and large carryover. Peach pack for the whole state of California last year, for example, totaled 13,651,754 cases, and compared with 9,535,187 in 1925 and a four-year average of 7,161,000 cases.

Cotton Cloth Production.

Production of standard cotton cloth in July was 24.5 per cent greater than during that month last year, while stocks declined 5.4 per cent during the month, according to the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York. Although sales were less than production and 31.7 per cent less in volume than in July, 1926, they were 29 per cent larger than during June, 1927. A large consumption of cotton goods is indicated by shipments, which continue to exceed production.

Speculators Cautious.

Some observers believe it is likely the market will continue to move within a trading range for some days, with a tendency toward slightly lower levels for time being. There is considerable pessimism in speculative circles and a number of traders are taking a short position on advances. Their covering operations have been checking sharp recessions thus far.

Childs Company Sales.

Sales of Childs Company for July and seven months, new stores included, compare as follows:

	1927	1926
July	$2,276,127	$2,159,785
Seven months	16,761,422	14,857,510

Servel Reorganization.

An agreement has been reached upon a plan for reorganization of Servel Corporation and its subsidiary companies and a syndicate has been organized which is prepared to underwrite the plan. The reorganization committee will consist of George W. Davison, president of the Central Union Trust Company, New York, as chairman; Nicholas F. Brady, Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the board of the Chase National bank; C. M. Kittle, president of Sears Roebuck & Co. and Murray H. Coggeshall of Coggeshall & Hicks.

Seminole Oil Production.

Production of crude oil in the Seminole area for 24 hours ended 7 a. m. Tuesday was 431,[illegible] barrels from 416 wells, compared with 432,911 barrels on Monday.

Money Conditions.

Bears are more emphatic in their arguments regarding money situation. They are pointing that quite general reduction in rediscount rates of Federal Reserve banks is indicative of less favorable business and industrial conditions than have been indicated by sources in past. Wall street always can get various interpretations of all developments and recent rediscount rate cut has been no exception.

Optimists, as in past, are pointing to manner in which market advanced following reduction in rate in April of last year. At that time, after a moderate advance, a selling wave was encountered, but when supply had spent itself market started upward and continued climbing for about 10 days.

Illinois Pipe's New Line.

Illinois Pipe Line has laid 47 miles of its 155-mile 10-inch line from the Big Lake field, [illegible] county, West Texas, to Ohio and has purchased land for a tank farm at [illegible] and will build storage facilities for 2,500,000 barrels of oil. The line will be completed about October 1.

California Oil Outlook.

The outlook for the petroleum industry in California has changed for the better within the last few weeks, Los Angeles advices said. The production of crude oil is showing a downward tendency as a result of a certain amount of co-operation among the operators in shutting in considerable production. With the exception of the Seal Beach area, which has been more or less defined, no large new development is taking place which justifies the conclusion that the production situation in California is fairly well under control.

UPWARD STOCK PRICE SWING CONTINUES

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Stock prices made further recovery in today's market, with the rails taking a more prominent part in the advance. Buying of the industrials embraced a wide list, but the motor, mercantile, public utility, steel and farm implement shares gave the best exhibitions of group strength.

An increase of 88,768 tons in the July unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation helped to create bullish sentiment, as did the increase in freight car loadings in the last week of July over the preceding week. Call money was again in plentiful supply at 3½ per cent.

Bethlehem Steel crossed 62 to the highest price in four years on buying influenced by hope of an early resumption of dividends, and expectations of increased business through the decision of the Coolidge administration to go ahead with its naval building program, held in suspense pending the outcome of the Geneva conference. Republic and Vanadium Steels also recorded good gains.

General Railway Signal ran up over 5 points and Otis Elevator 6½ in the early trading. Concurrent strength of Brooklyn Edison and Brooklyn Union Gas, both of which touched new highs, was accompanied by unconfirmed merger rumors. Other issues to climb into new high ground were American Express, Case Threshing, Canada Dry, Commonwealth Power, American Bosch Magneto, American Linseed, White Sewing Machine, Reynolds Tobacco B and Yellow Truck.

Buying of the rails centered largely in such seasoned dividend payers as New York Central, Canadian Pacific, Union Pacific and Atlantic Coast Line.

The closing was firm. Spectacular advances in individual shares contributed to the nervousness of the short interest and encouraged more general buying for the long account. Brooklyn Union Gas went up nearly 12 points in all, and Timken Roller Bearing, Brooklyn Edison and Canada Dry Ginger Ale were quoted 7 points or so above where they left off yesterday. Some evidences of realizing were present in United States Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Mack Truck and Baldwin. Total sales approximated 1,500,000.

New York Bond Market

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Strength of convertible bonds was the outstanding feature of today's market, while signs of returning firmness were present in the list of high grade issues which have been sagging since the first of the week. The gilt-edged mortgages were sustained by continued easy money conditions, while the convertibles, in most instances, reflected strength of related stocks.

Brooklyn Union Gas 5½s followed the shares in a sweep upward, advancing 6 points to 226, while the Erie "D" 4s also rose sharply. White Sewing Machine 6s leaped 5 to 148, making a gain since last Saturday of more than a dozen points.

"Katy" adjustment 5s were among the leading high grade rail liens, while Hudson and Manhattan 5s, Missouri Pacific general 4s and a few others also improved fractionally.

Strength and activity of French issues stood out in the foreign group, particularly Nord Railway 6½s, which sold up more than a point and a small fraction under their high price for the year.

United States government issues were steady and quiet.

Chicago Board

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—With the government crop report on spring wheat this afternoon expected to make a bearish exhibit wheat prices early averaged lower today. Gossip was current that a present less promising condition than on July 1 would not be reflected until the next report. Opening ⅛ to ⅝c lower, wheat underwent a slight further drop and then scored rallies. Corn was easy, starting unchanged to ⅛c off but later firming up. Oats developed strength. Provisions tended to sag.

Government figures on spring wheat yield were rather generally expected today to conform to latest private estimates which indicated 290,000,000 to 295,000,000 bushels. Official July returns were 274,000,000 bushels and last year's crop 205,000,000 bushels. On the other hand, unofficial trade authorities looked for a reduction of 10,000,000 to 25,000,000 bushels in winter wheat production compared with last month.

Some experts, however, said the government figures on the condition of spring wheat were gathered two to three days later than the date at which private reports were compiled and that the government report might easily show below private reports. It was pointed out, nevertheless, that black rust development did not get well under way until after August 1 and that the government report could not well give an adequate idea of what has happened in the last 10 days.

The steadier tone of the spot market and reports of continued European interest in Cuban sugar, as well as the firmer London market, were reflected by a firmer ruling in the raw sugar futures market. Shorts and commission houses were the principal buyers. Prices advanced 2 to 4 points, but in the late forenoon, offerings increased and partial setbacks followed with the market at midday about 1 to 2 points net higher.

Salient Points of the Bidding

East is prepared to handle the situation whatever may be his partner's response to the informatory double of North's No Trump bid.

Salient Points of the Play

Trick 3. North continues with Diamonds, since opening any other suit would obviously be disadvantageous.

Trick 10. North, stripped of Spades and Clubs, must lead away from his King of Hearts or else give the opponents a discard and ruff by the lead of his thirteenth Diamond.

Funds for More U. S. Liners First Duty of the Congress

One of the first duties of the coming Congress is to appropriate for the two 40,000-ton passenger steamers that General Dalton wants to add to the Leviathan and provide an unbeatable all-American service to Europe across the North Atlantic.

General Dalton has already shown what he can do with this service of the United States Lines, though he has had only one first-class vessel, the Leviathan, to operate with. During the last twelve months the United States Lines made a net profit of $371,000. The real profit made was $635,000, but it was reduced by $264,000 contributed towards the expenses of the Merchant Fleet Corporation, which has charge of all the vessels of the Shipping Board.

The whole country should be proud of this showing. It was made in the face of bitter opposition by foreign steamship concerns, determined that the United States Lines were not going to obtain a permanent foothold in the Atlantic trade.

Moreover, this fine showing was made in the face of some opposition and distrust on the part of private American steamship lines. Some of them have not wanted a government line to be successful, because they did not want government operation extended and perhaps appearing later in competition with their private-owned services.

There is no danger. The American government is not going into routes that are adequately served by private American lines. The business of the American government is to provide service on important routes where private American lines have not been able to establish themselves. The North Atlantic is a perfect example.

It will be a very grave error for Congress to refuse encouragement to General Dalton's United States Lines, now that they have borne the burden of losses in their early years and are becoming established on a profitable basis. Let's have this year an immediate appropriation for the most rapid possible building of the two new 40,000-tonners.

Terrorism Will Not Help To Save Sacco and Vanzetti

It is unthinkable that any sane sympathizer of Sacco and Vanzetti believes their cause can be aided by throwing bombs, destroying property and killing innocent people. If these acts were fastened on partisans of the two condemned men it would turn every last remnant of sympathy away from them.

Just as futile, and just as harmful to Sacco and Vanzetti, is violence done or threatened to American property and American citizens abroad.

In this country the course of justice cannot be directed by terrorism. It can only be directed by the appeal to reason.

Millions of Americans thought the conviction of Sacco and Vanzetti should be reviewed. It was reviewed by a committee of eminent and public-minded men—President Lowell of Harvard, President Stratton of Massachusetts Institute of Technology and ex-Judge Robert Grant, three of the most distinguished citizens of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Bitter feelings have been aroused in the matter. Some will never believe the men guilty. But many sober citizens will accept the verdict of the Lowell-Stratton-Grant Committee as closing the record.

This committee censured Judge Thayer for his "indiscretions." Approval of the censure will be unanimous, evidencing the jealousy with which the people guard the sanctity of the judiciary.

Why Not Stop Jay-Walking Everywhere?

Los Angeles Stops It, Chicago Means To.

In New York, Pittsburgh and other big Eastern cities, traffic is delayed and many accidents are caused by what is called "jay walking," foolish conduct on the part of pedestrians.

They dash across the streets in the middle of the block at the risk of their lives. That should be illegal and punished by fines, except when the "lights" on the street are in favor of the pedestrian.

Pedestrians foolishly crowd out into the street while waiting for the stream of automobiles to pass, forcing the automobiles to slow down or making them go in single file, instead of double file, to avoid striking pedestrians standing ten feet or more beyond the sidewalk line.

All this is dangerous, foolish. Pedestrians and automobiles lose by it: it makes traffic slower and delays the opportunity to pass safely.

In Los Angeles traffic rules apply to pedestrians as well as to automobiles. When traffic is against them, pedestrians wait and cross when the line of traffic is changed.

That ought to be done in New York, Pittsburgh, and all big cities where traffic is properly regulated by police or by "lights."

There should also be restrictions, wherever they are needed, against the "left turn," which adds to danger.

The automobile in all its forms, trucks, passenger cars, motor busses, is a necessary part of modern life, serving ALL THE POPULATION. Streets belong to automobile traffic. Sidewalks belong to pedestrian traffic. Pedestrians should realize that streets are now as dangerous as railroad tracks, even more dangerous.

They should co-operate with every sensible plan for diminishing danger and facilitating traffic.

DON'T BE A JAY-WALKER.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Wherever one goes in public here, are those expressionless, straight-lipped ladies in elegant gowns sparkling with jewels. They have the cold glamour of the moonbeam and cannot be stirred beyond a polite murmur.

Life has apparently given all the material gifts, but killed the emotions. If they know anyone save their escorts, they make no show of recognition. To have friends is to be discussed, so they walk alone and become resigned to indolence.

Although they spurn companionship, yet for some unexplainable reason they gravitate to the same centers. Certain cross streets on the east and west side become their sanctuaries. These are not the butterfly types of gold diggers so widely discussed.

They are not mulcting some ancient Romeo out of gold cigaret cases and ruby shirt studs for a gigolo. In their own way—misguided as it is—they play the game of surrendering beauty and freedom for the worldly baubles.

When discarded, as they usually are, they go to European cities which have no concern in pasts. Once or twice a week they appear in public and the rest of the time they seem to spend motoring in the park, reading popular novels and making daily rounds of the beauty parlors.

Such women are peculiar to large cities. They could not long stand the scorn of gossiping towns. Not so long ago one stricken with what the doctor considered a fatal malady wrote to an old friend of her plight. She said:

"For ten years I have cut myself off from all human contact save that of one person. Few can realize the futility of such a solitary existence. Everything has been done alone. And now I must die and in the nature of things must do that too—alone."

A perfume parlor advertises: "Morning, afternoon and night odors."

One of those vigorous pumplike handshakers who seem to express much masculine "It" crashed the office guard of a busy man the other morning. The b. m. looked up and inquired coldly: "What is it—a non-stop Oklahoma oil well or a new way to make gold from sawdust?"

* * *

And, O, yes, a couturier advertises: "My clientele has compelled me to become a perfumer." Try opening the windows, mister!

* * *

Saturday is an extremely busy day at various money order postoffice windows. It is the day when thousands dispatch bits of salaries to those back home. The aggregation seems made up chiefly of young men and women with corn fed looks.

* * *

* * *

There is interest in the new Metropolitan Opera House on a new site uptown. Tentative designs give a monster mosque impression—a sort of glorified roundhouse. It needs this stimulation. Somehow or other there does not seem to be the enthusiasm in the Metropolitan among ordinary folk since Enrico Caruso died and Geraldine Farrar retired. Opera needs vivid personalities, just as a book or play.

* * *

It may be rushing the season, but down the avenue ankled one of those slinky young things with a certain "after all" manner, a fur hand muff that would not have made a light lunch for a hungry moth, a fur cap—and around her shoe tops were small strips of white ermine. Nobody seemed to know what show she was with.

More Truth Than Poetry

By S. E. KISER

Winning the Battle

"THIS," said Jonathan P. Durkin,
"Is a good world in most ways;
It's a right good world to work in,
But a darned poor world to shirk in,
Or be wastin' precious days;
Ain't yet reached perfection, no, sir;
But we keep on gettin' closer,
Take it from me,
Jonathan P.

"WHEN you hear a feller wailin'
That they've put him on the shelf,
It's a sign that something's ailin'
The unlucky chap himself;
I ain't one to say there's never
Anything in luck at all,
But they can't keep on forever
Crowding merit to the wall.

"I get sick sometimes of hearin'
That the good times all are past,
And what's ever gained by fearin'
That good goin' cannot last?
If our dads had not been plucky
When they cleared the stones away,
We would be a lot less lucky
Than we find ourselves today.

"IT'S a fine old world to drive in;
Roads are better every year;
It's a right good world to strive in,
And a pleasant world to thrive in,
With a heart that's free from fear;
There are troubles—plenty, yes, sir—
But we're lickin' 'em, professor,
Take it from me,
Jonathan P."

One Drawback to Success

By DR. FRANK CRANE

One of the drawbacks to success, one of the things you necessarily have to give up if you have the plaudits of fame, is friendship.

Not always, perhaps, but usually.

When you are poor and unknown you enjoy the companionship of your equals. The boys slap you on the back and call you Bill. When you become rich or famous you are Mr. Jones, or the Honorable Wm. Jones, and if you are gregariously inclined, you miss the hail-fellow-well-met of your fellows.

A story was published some years ago in a magazine describing how comfortable a worker was in the delightful associations that were his. Fellows and their wives used to drop over after supper and play a game of cards. He had a good time with the boys at the lodge meetings and circulated pleasantly at conventions. He knew a lot of people and people knew him. His soul expanded in the favorable atmosphere.

Then a millionaire in the town took a notion not only to appoint him general manager of his factory, but to leave him a million dollars.

Immediately all his relations with the other families became strained. Women either ceased to call on his wife because they would be suspected of currying her influence, or they called on her from interested motives. Somehow he was taboo among his fellows and he had to associate with the rich, whom he did not like, in order to get any companionship. He could not mingle with the boys any more.

It would be pretty hard for a man who knew Mr. Coolidge in his struggling days to have an interesting chat with him now at the White House. The suspicion would always come up that he had a selfish motive in recalling early associations, and perhaps he would have this motive, if he was human.

The other boys in the flying business who knew Lindbergh before he stepped upon the pinnacle of fame find it hard work to know him any more. He doubtless is a good fellow and would like to keep his early companionships, but he will find it hard work.

Somehow your former acquaintances drop away and you must make new ones.

For a man who is rising in the world more than for anyone else it is true that, as Dr. Johnson says, "one must keep his friendships in a constant state of repair."

Since he has got famous now or rich, his old friends say there seems to be a barrier between him and them.

Perhaps the satisfactions of fame or riches more than outweigh this, and then perhaps they do not.

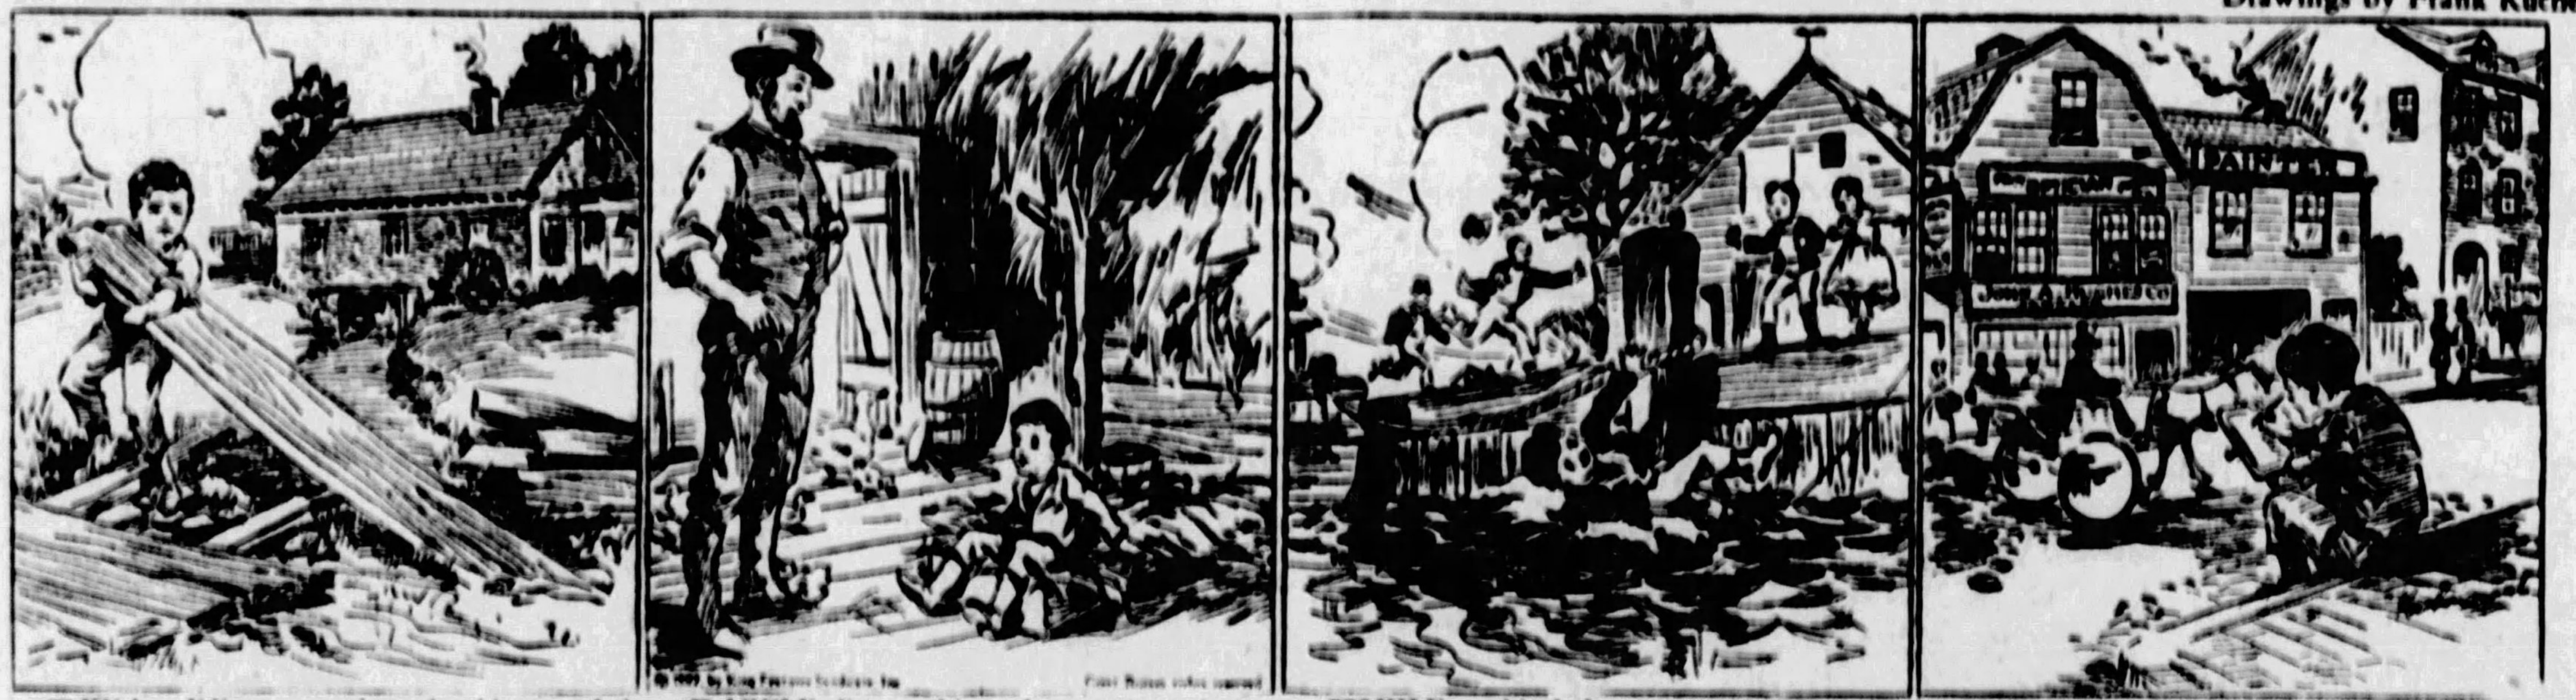
THE LIFE OF THOMAS A. EDISON

(Authorized and Endorsed by Mr. Edison)

Text by Arthur J. Palmer
Drawings by Frank Kuchenmeister



THE boy Edison soon showed evidences of the constructive tendency which has made him a leader in elevating humanity to heights of lighter toil, greater comfort and keener enjoyment of living. Instead of romping around with no definite purpose in view, he would be found making little plankroads with the debris he collected from the nearby shipyards and sawmills.

RARELY did anything of moment or interest escape the keen eye and brain of the boy destined to become one of civilization's greatest benefactors. He had observed a goose sitting on her eggs and noted the result. His strong experimental tendencies could not resist the temptation personally to hatch out a nest of goose-eggs and hen-eggs he had collected.

WHILE, as his father once said, Edison never had any boyhood days in the ordinary sense, he could not entirely escape certain boyhood experiences. Most of the boys of Milan had fallen into the canal. Young Edison was no exception, and on the fateful day that he got his ducking the world came perilously near to losing one of its future great men. But he was rescued.

EVEN as a young boy Edison seemed always bent on a search for greater knowledge. His capacity for absorption seemed inexhaustible at an early age. When not plying an elder with endless questions, he would be found at a self-imposed task such as copying the signs over the stores in the village square, as this picture shows him.
